Germany Will Not Abandon Submarine Position

ACTION OF AMERICA IS REGRETTED AT BERLIN

Orders for Conduct of Diver Warfare Off British Coast Not to Be Modified, According to Kaiser Representative

AVOIDANCE OF WAR THOUGHT DIFFICULT

Hope Entertained That Citizens of This Country Will Dodge Zone of Operation Outlined in Recent Note to the World

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

BERLIN, Feb. 4, Sunday, via London, Feb. 5.—Probability of a peaceful continuance of German-American relations after the departure of the respective embassies at Washington and Berlin in the sense indicated by President Wilson in his address to Congress appears to be very slight judging by all the information, some of the highest authenticity, gathered by the Associated Press.

It was stated positively in high political circles that the German orders for the conduct of a submarine war could not and would not be modified; that in Germany the determination to enforce the prohibited zone order was absolute and final and that the only security for shipping was avoidance of the prohibited zone.

Germany, so the Associated Press was informed, resorted to this measure after the "shameful" rejection by the entente powers of peace overtures and only after the fullest determination and as the imperative weapon in defense of its threatened interests. Germany cannot relinquish this weapon—the only one promising a speedy end to the war—reluctant as Germany was to take this step.

The government had hoped that the United States would see it in this light and was and is actuated by no animosity to the United States in its determination. Germany therefore, so the high informant of the Associated Press continued, "is very keenly disappointed and grieved by the terms of Mr. Wilson's message, but the government cannot alter or modify the course upon which it has determined." This official added:

"We can only hope and trust that American citizens will avoid the danger zones laid down in the German memorandum."

Americans Plan to Flee Berlin; Gerard Notified

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—American Ambassador Gerard received the United States Government's formal telegram withdrawing him from Berlin at 10 o'clock Sunday night. He expected to deliver the American Government's statement to Foreign Secretary Zimmerman at 11 o'clock Monday morning.

Ambassador Gerard worked until midnight Sunday arranging embassy affairs and conferring with his staff, preparing to leave.

Despite the fact that every German declares the imperial government will certainly not modify, curtail or withdraw its submarine policy, nevertheless there were a number of Americans here who continued to believe that war will not follow America's break.

Many of these expect to stay in

Immigration Bill Passes in Spite of Veto

President's Action Fails to Prevent Law to Which Japan Objects.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Despite objections from Japan and over the veto of President Wilson, the Senate today repassed the immigration bi Exception has been taken, according to announcement made in the Senate before the bill's passage, by Japan to the language of the Asiatic exclusion section.

The passage of the bill by the Senate makes the bill a law, in spite of the veto of President Wilson, the House having passed it over his veto last week. The veto was based on the President's objections to the literacy test.

The voted was 62 to 19.

The administration already has successfully used its influence to prevent passage of anti-alien land bills in Idaho and Oregon objected to by Japan, and a desire not to agitate relations with Japan now is evident in all administration quarters. This has been discounted by the favorable reception in Japan of President Wilson's action in breaking off diplomatic relations with Germany, which has been most gratifying to the government.

The language objected to by the Japanese government concerns the Root-Takahira gentlemen's agreement, under which Japan pledged its word of honor to regulate the emigration of her citizens to the United States.

Reed's announcement startled the Senate because it had been generally believed that the immigration bill had been amended to meet the Japanese protest.

"I am authorized by the state department to say that it may be the occasion of some misunderstanding," said Senator Reed.

"I am also authorized to say that the state department is exceedingly desirous that nothing shall be done which shall cause the Japanese government to feel that we have in any way impugned upon the understanding which now exists."

Reed explained that the Japanese government had specifically protested against the section of the bill forbidding the admission of all aliens now seeking entrance.

The Japanese government, he said, interpreted this to provide for the shutting out of all Japanese immigrants.

PRESIDENT URGES PLAN FOR DEFENSE

Wilson Confers With Navy, War Secretaries on Preparations for Putting Forces of the Nation on a War Footing

Announcement Made That U. S. Will Not Make Wholesale Seizures of German Ships in American Ports; Aid Offered

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The war and navy departments were visited by President Wilson personally today.

Unexpectedly he left the White House and crossed to the State, War and Navy building. There he was first closeted with Secretary of the Navy Daniels and Chief of Operations Admiral Benson. He then went to the war department for a conference with Secretary of War Baker.

The President minimized as much as possible the importance of his visit. But it was learned that he discussed with Secretary Daniels the navy's plans to take over munition plants, shipyards and for completing the naval program at the earliest possible moment. With Secretary Baker he talked over the plans the army has for meeting any and all emergencies.

NO WHOLESALE SEIZURES.

Following the President's visit it was officially stated that he had fully discussed with the naval and war heads all matters affecting their departments. It was stated that so far as the United States was concerned, its actions, as in the past, will be guided by principle and not expediency. Germany is to be given no excuse for assaults on the American policy, it was said. And for this reason there is to be no wholesale seizure of German ships in American ports.

Before the visit of the President Secretary Daniels and Chairman Padgett of the House naval affairs committee discussed legislation needed to give the navy department sufficient power to meet all its needs. The department wants authority to have shipyards suspend work on vessels that would not be needed by the government in the event of hostilities in favor of craft that would be useful and also to extend the eight-hour day in cases where quick work on contracts is needed. The secretary was assured that Congress desires to do everything possible to aid the navy.

EVERY CRAFT LISTED.

It was announced by the department that every craft lying in a United States harbor has been listed with a view to learning just what aid the navy will have from commandeering ships. There have also been listed all shipyards, with the work that is going on, capacity and possibilities of expansion.

Offers of industrial corporations all over the country to turn over their plants to the navy department or in other ways facilitate its work continued to pour in on the department today. Among those offering such aid was James B. Bonner, who told Secretary Daniels the United States Steel Corporation stood ready to facilitate in any way any work that might be needed. H. S. Kimball of the Remington Arms Company called on a similar errand, as did Stewart Lee of the Pusey & Jones Company, Wilmington shipbuilders.

The enlistments in the navy during January were 1422, Secretary Daniels announced today.

Lieutenant Belknap of the bureau of operations was today designated censor of news in the department and at once made plans to prevent the leakage of secrets that would aid an enemy.

AUSTRIA TO FACE BREAK ON U-BOATS

Backs Up Germany in Diver War Stand; New Minister, Not Yet Received by the President, Waits for Word

Diplomatic Rupture With Teutons to Be Followed by Second, Is Believed by Officials; Envoy Dispatches His Note

By John Edwin Nevin,
Staff Correspondent International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Whether the diplomatic break with Germany must be extended to include Austria was the new question at stake in the international situation today. Austria has backed up the German plan for unrestricted warfare by submarines. Complete confirmation of this fact has been received from Ambassador Penfield at Vienna. He has communicated the text of a statement handed him by the Austrian foreign office announcing the new Austrian plan for submarine operations which can be expected in the Mediterranean. It is now in the hands of President Wilson, who will decide what action shall follow. Meanwhile officials withhold comment.

Officialdom generally expects a diplomatic break. But as to when it will take place or whether, in view of the warning given Germany, it would be policy to wait and see whether Austria's threats mean that neutral rights are to be infringed on, President Wilson only can say. He will confer with Secretary Lansing over the matter today or tomorrow.

Count Tarnow remained in strictest seclusion at the Austrian embassy. "He is only a private citizen until he presents his credentials to the President," explained Baron Zwiedinek, the charge d'affaires, when told of the growing possibility that the United States might break with Austria-Hungary.

"Accordingly, he will have no comment to make."

It was considered significant that a strong police guard was thrown about the Austrian embassy today for the first time. It was also learned the servants of the embassy who live outside and have been in the habit of paying their board for a full month in advance have paid but two weeks this time, so strong is the feeling that the days of the embassy are numbered.

Although the United States, according to authorities, would not be bound to secure a safe conduct for Count Tarnow for his return to Vienna, it is indicated that such a request would be made if the President declines to receive and recalls Ambassador Penfield.

U. S. Censors News of Damage to Gunboat

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5.—The extent of the damage to the interned German gunboat Geier, which advices yesterday from Honolulu stated was on fire in the harbor there, probably will remain unknown until the government censorship has relaxed. Messages sent from this city to Honolulu seeking information regarding the Geier brought only the laconic reply: "Censorship in operation."

Berlin Regards News of Break Calmly

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 5.—Private advices from Berlin say the announcement of the rupture of relations between the United States and Germany was received with comparative calm by the people.

"Judging by the news received from the United States, the feeling there against the Germans is incomparably more bitter than the feeling here against Americans," says a despatch from Berlin.

Powder Plants to Be Offered to Country

J., plant alone more than one million pounds of smokeless powder a day can be turned out.

WILSON HOPES FOR PEACE, BUT PLANS FOR WAR

President Urges Congress to Clear Decks For Action to Meet Eventualities in Event Germany Commits Overt Act

SHIPS' ARRIVAL EASES TENSION

By Associated Press Leased Wire to TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Still fervently hoping for peace but taking every possible step to prepare the country for war, President Wilson today appealed to Congress quickly to dispose of all routine business, appropriation bills and pending legislation and clear its decks for action to meet any eventuality.

A resolution endorsing President Wilson's action in severing diplomatic relations with Germany was introduced in the Senate today by Senator Stone, chairman of the foreign relations committee, emphasizing particularly the President's expressed desire to maintain peace. The resolution recited the severance of diplomatic relations with Germany and concluded by declaring "that the Senate approved the action taken by the President as set forth in his address to Congress."

Senator Stone requested that the resolution go over for a day under the rules for action tomorrow and it was agreed to without debate.

The President wants Congress ready to act if it becomes necessary to address it again and ask for authority to use all the resources of the United States to protect American ships and lives on their peaceful and lawful errands on the high seas.

The safe arrival of American ships in English harbors, reported this morning, brought an air of relief to the tensity which has prevailed everywhere. Officials still hoped Germany would not violate her pledges to the United States despite her threat.

All officials realized that the situation had resolved itself into one of tense waiting and careful preparation. They realized that the hoped-against overt act may come soon or be long delayed. Meanwhile they are putting every agency of the government in motion to meet it.

Apparently the next question of great moment to be decided relates to Austria's participation in Germany's campaign of ruthlessness. President Wilson is ready to sever relations also with the dual monarchy as soon as it officially subscribes to the German declaration.

Despite the severance of diplomatic relations with Germany President Wilson believes his long struggle to preserve the country's peace has not been lost. He still hopes not only that hostilities will be avoided, but that other neutrals, adding their voices to that of the United States will unite the major moral force of the world to compel peace in Europe.

HOUSATONIC SINKING LEGAL.

It now appears that the sinking of the American steamer Housatonic Saturday by a submarine was not an illegal act, since she carried a contraband cargo of wheat, warning was given and the crew saved.

The situation in regard to the Austria had not changed up to today.

Chapters of the Red Cross throughout the United States had orders from national officers to prepare for immediate relief work.

Government officials authorized a statement denying reports that seizure of German war-bound merchant ships in American harbors is contemplated.

It was explained, however, that steps have been taken to prevent the obstruction of harbors by the blowing up or sinking of any of these vessels. This action is prompted by reports that German crews have attempted a damage of war-bound ships in Philippine harbors and in several American ports.

SECRET PREPARATIONS.

The department of justice is making secret preparations for forestalling depredations which German sympathizers might commit on munition factories or public works. Secretaries Baker and Daniels yesterday conferred with bureau chiefs and plans are under discussion for graduating the senior class at Annapolis to meet any emergency conditions.

President Wilson had no engagements scheduled for the day, but planned to devote his entire attention to the German situation.

REPUBLICANS TO SUPPORT.

Senator Stone's resolution introduced today and put over for tomorrow follows:

"Whereas, The President has for the reasons stated in his address delivered to the Congress in joint session on February 3, 1917, severed diplomatic relations with the imperial German government by the recall of the American ambassador at Berlin and by handing his passports to the German ambassador at Washington; and

"Whereas, That, notwithstanding this severance of diplomatic intercourse, the President has expressed his desire to avoid conflict with the imperial German government; and

"Whereas, The President declared in his address that it in his judgment an occasion should arise for further action in the premises on the part of the government of the United States, he would submit the matter to the Congress and ask the authority of Congress to use such measures as he might deem necessary for protection of American seamen and people in prosecution of their peaceful and legitimate errands on the high seas; therefore, be it

"Resolved, By the Senate, that the Senate approves the action by the President as set forth in his address delivered before the joint session of the Congress as stated above."

Republican Senate leaders, among them Lodge, Gallinger and Smoot, were consulted, and the Republicans will support the endorsement.

Raise Guard Fence About U. S. Wireless

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 5.—Work was rushed today on the building of high barbed wire fences about the new United States wireless station at Chollas Heights and at Point Loma. Guards have been doubled at both places.

JAPAN HEARS WITH GLEE OF U. S. MOVE

Believe Actual Participation Unnecessary to Curb Kasier

TOKYO, Feb. 5.—United States cables announcing the severance of diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany created a tremendous sensation in Tokyo.

All the newspapers in this city and Osaka showed great enthusiasm. The general public was greatly astonished by the swiftness of President Wilson's action, evidently expecting further delay.

Marquis Okuma, former premier of Japan, said the breaking of relations with America may force Germany to surrender to the allies. America does not need to participate in any of the actual fighting, he believed, in order to accomplish the kaiser's defeat.

Financial conditions in Tokyo reflected the general optimism which has resulted from America's new attitude. They do not expect any actual hostilities between the United States and Germany.

Proclamation Forbidding U. S. Shipowners to Dispose by a Sale or Lease of Vessels Under American Flag Issued

CAUTION URGED IN ORDER TO OFFICIALS

Steps Taken to Protect Capitol Building at Washington and Movement of Troops From Border Halted by War Dept.

Special to The TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Energetic preparations for possible hostilities between this country and Germany today engaged the attention of official Washington. Most striking of any action taken in this direction was the order issued by President Wilson which prohibited the sale or lease of any vessel under the American flag. It was issued on the understanding that any American craft might be needed for war service in case of this country's becoming a belligerent.

The President pointed out that a national emergency exists and that many ship owners of the United States are permitting their vessels to pass to allen registers and to foreign trade in which we do not participate "and from which they cannot be brought back to serve the needs of our water-born commerce without the permission of the governments of foreign nations."

PRESIDENT URGES CALM.

Warning to the country—government officials and citizens—against doing anything in panic or haste that might embarrass the government seriously in its present international situation, was issued by the administration. Officials holding positions of unusual responsibility as a result of the present situation have been urged to use great care not to do anything that this government has not a clear and legal right to do.

The official warning came in view of the reports that German ships were being seized—something which has not, and will not be done, unless war is declared. The President feels there is no panic nor haste warranted at the present time and has determined that whatever other governments may do, this government is going to adhere strictly to the letter of the law. Then if action becomes inevitable, the United States, he holds, will be clear of any questionable move and will be free to act upon principles and not upon a basis of expediency.

Lest something unwise might be done on any occasion of temporary excitement or panic, the different government departments have notified all employees that their action must be guided absolutely according to law.

MEASURES IN CONGRESS.

Speeding up preparedness measures, the Senate judiciary committee reported favorably on the seventeen conspiracy bills, "to prevent and punish conspiracy to injure or destroy property situated within the United States and belonging to a foreign government with which the United States is at peace."

Representative Tague of Boston introduced a resolution permitting the re-enlistment of the enlisted men in the navy, marine corps and the army who have been discharged by court-martial or otherwise, provided moral turpitude was not involved in the discharge.

Carrying a provision to empower the President to take over railways in time of war, the administration railway labor bill was reintroduced in the House today without the compulsory arbitration feature.

PROTECT THE CAPITOL.

Drastic regulations for protection of the capitol building against bomb plots were being formulated today. Visitors will be subjected to careful scrutiny and will be admitted to the galleries only after procuring cards, good for one day only, under an arrangement being considered by the sergeant-at-arms.

Secretary Lansing conferred with President Wilson this afternoon. On his way to the White House he would not discuss the object of his visit.

Spain has formally agreed to take over all United States interests in Germany during the period of rupture between this country and the kaiser's government, it was announced by the state department today.

Thirty-one Similar Ships in N. Y. Harbor Are Sealed and the Immigration Test Asked of the Crews of All of Them

MANILA, Feb. 5.—The naval authorities at 6 o'clock this evening seized the seventeen German merchant vessels anchored in Manila bay. All the German crews were removed.

Naval guards were on the vessels. Boats were sent to the German merchantmen which were boarded one at a time. The American crews took off the Germans who were landed. The marines will care for the Germans who are without resources. The others will go free. American police are guarding the German consulate.

A despatch from Manila yesterday said guards had been placed on the vessels. In addition to the seventeen merchantmen at Manila, there are three German vessels at Cobu and three at Zamboanga.

It is reported that virtually all the machinery and engines of the twenty-three German steamers in Philippine ports have been damaged by their crews. Seventeen of these vessels are interned at Manila, three at Cebu and three at Zamboanga.

The damage in some cases is said to have been done thirty-six hours before the first report of the break in the relations between the United States and Germany.

The Filipino crews of the steamers here have been discharged. The crews of the steamers at Cebu have been excluded from the engine rooms.

The government has redoubled its precautions concerning the ships, but there have been no seizures.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5.—Upon instructions from Washington, W. H. Berry, collector of the port, last night ordered the officers and crews of the German liners Prinz Oskar and Rhaetia and the Austrian merchantman Franconia confined to their vessels. The guard about the ships was materially increased after the order became effective. The three crews aggregate about fifty men.

STEAMER AFIRE.

HONOLULU, H. T., Feb. 5.—The interned German cruiser Geier is burning in the harbor here. She was set on fire by her crew, according to the local authorities.

The Geier, an unprotected cruiser of 1604 tons, was interned shortly after the war began. She was built at Wilhelmshaven in 1894.

VESSELS ARE SEALED.

BY UNITED PRESS

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The thirty-one German and Austrian ships lying in New York harbor today are sealed. They will not be seized unless something further takes place in relations between this country and Germany.

It was stated on the highest authority that not a merchant ship in the United States has been seized by this government. This authority pointed out that it was the seizure of German ships by Portugal which led to a declaration of war by Germany on that country.

The ships were sealed and guards placed about them for the purpose of preventing members of the crew not naturalized to leave the vessels and take up residence without undergoing immigration examinations. Several of these cases already have been noted. The crews have been warned that they must either stay aboard or go to Ellis Island for examination.

The sealing of the ships was accomplished without disorder. The guards on the piers were quadrupled, the men were warned that they could not go ashore without the proper authority without forfeiting the right to return and all persons were kept away from the ships with the same explanation.

BERLIN REGRETS AMERICA'C ACTION

Possibility of Confining Break to Present Limits Feared Slight.

Germany, relying on the Prussian treaty to permit them to arrange their own business affairs. Many plan, to go to Denmark and Norway, expecting to leave there for America when ships are available.

By Carl W. Ackerman.

United Press Staff Correspondent.

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—Every American in Berlin is preparing for war between the United States and Germany.

News of the break in diplomatic relations was first printed in an extra issued at noon yesterday by the Berliner Zeitung Ammittag.

The report spread like wild-fire through Berlin. Americans telephoned the grave news to each other and called up the American embassy for further information.

To observers here any drawing back by Germany from her announcement of unlimited submarinings would be the greatest surprise of the war.

EVERY EFFORT MADE.

Germany has now mobilized every ounce of her energy for the expected —and decisive—campaigns.

With new troops constantly going to the front, with Zeppelins flying over the city, with daily reports of submarine successes and the news of successful throwing off of entente attacks on all fronts, the public is steeled to further sacrifices.

The feeling here is that Germany is a gigantic powder magazine preparing for an explosion in a military sense—and that this explosion will shake the universe.

The American embassy was a picture of gloom. Secretary Joseph C. Grew, Commander Gherardi, naval attache, and other secretaries and employees paced the corridors nervously.

AMERICANS CALM.

Outside on the streets and in the subways the newspaper extras sold furiously. Announcement officially of the break was calmly awaited by the American colony, however.

The question everybody in Berlin asked was how American officials, correspondents, Red Cross doctors and citizens will reach America, with all European liners stopped.

The present indication was that hundreds of Americans will be stranded. Neutral ship lines are refusing to book any passages. A great number of Americans who had arranged to sail during February and March were notified that their sailings had been cancelled.

But the exodus of these Americans from Germany had already begun. It started in the middle of last week.

With all Scandinavian and Dutch liners stopped, Spain appears to be the only open route. On Saturday the ambassador received a telegram from the American embassy in Madrid notifying him what liners were scheduled from there.

PLANS FOR DEPARTURE.

One suggestion that was circulated in Berlin was that Washington arrange for a Norwegian ship to bring Americans from Bergen, Norway, to New York, and, returning, to bear back from America Ambassador Bernstorff, his staff and German consuls.

Newspapers have been pointing out daily since announcement of Germany's new policy that the small European neutrals—Denmark, Holland and Scandinavia—are not expected to oppose the submarinings because of fear.

No comment from American newspapers has yet been printed.

Discussing the general situation created by the submarine order, the Lokal Anzeiger declared editorially: "The public should be satisfied with one warm room and not expect the whole apartment. The public is warned that it must not only sacrifice more but must expect even more discomfort by the prolongation of the war if the public wants to help win."

Guards Placed on Vessels Instead of Sending Men to Island

Following the disappearance but subsequent return of four men from the interned German steamer Serapis at the Hanlon shipyard in the Oakland estuary, a conference was held this morning between Collector of the Port J. O. Davis, Commissioner of Immigration Edward White and United States District Attorney John W. Preston, at which it was decided to allow the officers and men to remain on the four vessels at present interned in the harbor instead of taking them to Angel Island. Members of the crew of the Serapis who have secured work ashore prior to the present diplomatic break with Germany are to be allowed to retain their positions.

Since the return last night of four of the crew, there are now on the Serapis out of the original crew of forty only twelve men, including Captain Emil Catosle. It was decided by the United States officials to place two guards on the Serapis and two on each of the other vessels —the bark Ottawa and the power schooners Atlas and Neptune, which are anchored off the Sausalito shore.

The chief engineer of the Serapis attempted to come ashore this morning with a package of books under his arm, which he said he wished to take to the public library. When he was accosted by one of the customs officers on guard he refused to give his name and was ruffled in temper. When told that he could not go ashore for the present, he retorted that it would be up to the United States to feed the men on board.

Captain Catosle said today that he had allowed most of his crew to leave the ship and obtain work on shore, because they were only receiving one dollar a day during their enforced stay in port, and he thought that they were entitled to earn more if they could find work. He said that he knows the location of most of the men and can get them to come back, if it is necessary that they should do so.

Last night the const guard cutter Bear was maintaining a launch patrol around the three German vessels off Sausalito to see that none of the men left.

Precautions for the protection of government property are being taken in the present crisis following the severing of diplomatic relations with Germany. Guards were placed at the wireless stations, particularly at the large Marconi station at Bolinas. Guards were also posted on all the lighthouse reservations to warn off trespassers.

Munition Plants Are Under Guard

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5.—The tension created here by the crisis between the United States and Germany has resulted in a strengthening and tightening of guard lines about all government property and privately owned munition plants.

Plants of tremendous military importance are located in and near this city, including the Frankford and Schuylkill arsenals and the big armament plants that are turning out thousands of tons of war materials. All of these places were under heavy guard when the gates opened today.

The battleships Missour and Minnesota are said to be practically ready for sea duty as is the cruiser Wisconsin. The battleship Ohio and destroyer Paulding will be ready in a few days, it is said.

The reference to the "warm room" was particularly apparent today, since Berlin is now in the grip of one of the most severe blizzards in years. There has been great suffering. However, no deaths have yet been reported.

THE HAGUE, Feb. 4, via London, Feb. 5.—The United States legation here was busy today preparing to cope with the expected rush of Americans from the territories of the Central powers. It is estimated that there are probably 1000 Americans scattered through Germany and Austria-Hungary. A large proportion of these will undoubtedly try to reach home through Denmark and Switzerland, but several hundred are looked for by this route.

TAKING NO CHANCES.

Following rumors that a determined attempt was to be made to blow up certain public buildings here in Washington, a complete inspection was made this afternoon by Major Raymond Pullman, superintendent of police, and Commissioner Robert Brownlow, in charge of the department of public safety. They went to every part of the White House and state department building, accompanied by expert police aides. Nothing was found.

The inspection was most thorough. Rumors of impending plots to destr buildings here and in various cities now are in process of investigation.

"We are taking no chances," explained Major Pullman.

"An emergency conference in the interests of peace" was called to order this afternoon at the Raleigh hotel by W. J. Bryan and prominent peace advocates to discuss the present international crisis. A number of Congressmen attended.

Chicago Knew of Peace Note First

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—La Salle street in Chicago first knew of President Wilson's peace note. It tipped off Wall street and Wall street proceeded to "spill the beans," thereby bringing on the investigation.

This evidence was deduced before the House rules committee this afternoon in the shape of numerous telegrams which passed between E. F. Hutton & Co., New York, and Clements, Curtis & Co., Chicago. George A. Ellis, a partner of Hutton, identified the wires on the witness stand today.

NEUTRALS PLAN TO FOLLOW U. S. LEAD

Spain May Be First Government to Join in Severing German Relations.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Spain will follow the United States against Germany, even as far as declaring w according to a wireless despatch received from Rome today, quoting the Spanish ambassador there.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

LONDON, Feb. 5.—President Wilson's suggestions that all neutral countries break off diplomatic relations with Germany is now under consideration by practically all of the neutral governments, according to dispatches received here today.

The government most likely to take action upon the suggestion is Spain, it was reliably reported here.

Spain's reply to Germany's declaration of a ruthless submarine war is to be made public today, says a Madrid dispatch. It is believed to be a strong protest—almost an ultimatum in fact.

THE HAGUE, Feb. 5.—Doubt was expressed here today that Holland would follow the suggestion of President Wilson that all neutrals break off diplomatic relations with Germany.

Holland is in a trying position and the government is moving with slowness and caution. Cabinet members are maintaining a discreet silence.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 5.—President Wilson is most unlikely to receive much South American support in his suggestion for joint neutral action—if editorial comment is any standard by which to judge.

An editorial in La Nacion today is typical of the preponderating opinion of South American newspapers.

Itepitomized the statement of former Foreign Minister Muratore, expressing hope that the United States will "be wise enough to avoid war," implying that she can avoid hostilities if she wishes.

The editorial was likewise typical in its intimation that the United States is responsible for the present situation owing to its alleged attempt to monopolize the credit and prestage of peace-making. In pursuance with this attempt the United States was charged with defeating the consolidation of neutrals which the A. B. C. nations proposed early in the war and to the formation of which the United States at first pledged its aid. The aid was later withdrawn and the project fell through. Since that time the United States is held to have acted alone and on many occasions in such a way as to be directly opposed to South America's wishes in the matter.

La Nacion praised President Wilson's intentions, but added:

"If the United States is involved the last hope of universal peace disappears."

Disagreeing with La Nacion, the Buenos Aires Diaro Ilustrado declared today:

"Our only hope is that war will not come to South America or that there be a resurrection of the corpse of the peace union. It may be said that Germany has declared war on the entire world. We assume the United States will ask South America's support, and we believe no republic will refuse."

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Reuter's correspondent at Rio Janeiro says that information obtained from a trustworthy source confirms the opinion that the Brazilian government is convinced the time has come to abandon the attitude of an impartial spectator, if the measures indicated in the German note should inflict direct harm on vital interests of Brazil. The government is of the opinion, he says, that if the United States enters the conflict the only logical course for South American nations will be to attempt to establish general uniformity of continental policy.

A protest to Germany is said to have been drafted at a meeting last night between President Braz and Foreign Minister Muller.

CAPTAIN TELLS OF SINKING VESSEL

Housatonic Warned Before the Torpedo Is Fired, Says Ship's Master.

PENZANCE, England, Feb. 5, 4:56 p. m.—Captain Enson of New York, master of the American merchantman Housatonic today gave The Associated Press the following account of the sinking of his vessel taken from his log:

"At 1:30 o'clock on Saturday we saw a submarine, flying no colors, about 250 yards astern. She fired two shots, the second passing close to the ship and striking the water just ahead. We stopped the engines and then reversed them. We were ordered to take our papers aboard the submarine.

"When I boarded the submarine the commander at first spoke in German, but being told that it was understood he spoke perfect English.

CAPTAIN PROTESTS.

He said:

"I find the vessel is loaded with grain for London. It is my duty to sink her.' I protested vigorously. The commander at first took no notice and then explained: 'You are carrying foodstuffs to an enemy of my country and though I am sorry it is my duty to sink you.'

"I asked to be towed landward but the commander said it was impossible because the vicinity was full of British warships. I again protested, to no purpose, against the sinking of the ship, saying it was a deliberate act against a friendly power. He was indifferent to my protests.

"He then gave the signal to my crew to abandon ship. After the signal was answered from the ship he hoisted the German flag for the first time. He kept the ship's papers.

OFFICER GOES ABOARD.

"Then his third officer boarded the Housatonic, descended to the engine room and with a hammer smashed several sea cocks. After removing several hatches he ordered all aboard to take to the boats. Before he returned to the submarine I asked this officer to use his influence to induce the commander to tow us towards the land. He agreed.

"The ship was torpedoed at 12:30 o'clock on the starboard side, the commander taking camera pictures as she sank. He then threw us a tow line and towed us to the northward. The Housatonic disappeared in twenty minutes. The submarine towed us until 2 o'clock when we approached a British patrol boat. The submarine disappeared after attraction to us by firing a shot.

ENVOY PREPARES TO LEAVE U. S.

Bernstorff and Attaches Probably to Sail From Havana.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Still without the slightest knowledge of how they are going to reach Germany, Ambassador Von Bernstorff and his staff today began packing up for their departure. The room formerly set apart for the newspaper men was the center of this work and from early morning servants were heard at their tasks of making everything movable ready for shipment.

So bitter was the cold today the police guard outside the embassy had to work in relays, those on duty being relieved every half-hour by others who had warmed themselves. A few small boys on their way to school pelted the embassy with snowballs, but without any particular display of ill feeling. The bluecoats promptly put them to rout, nevertheless.

At first it had been planned for the party to depart on some steamer sailing from New York, but after further consideration it was though better that the departure be from some less thickly settled community. Under the tentative plans the consuls and their families will go to Havana, by way of Key West, from various parts of the country while the embassy staff will go directly south from Washington. A Spanish steamship large enough to accommodate all Germans is due to sail from Havana for Spain February 20. From Spain it is expected the party will go to Switzerland, either by rail through France or by steamer to Italy and then by rail. In either case safe conducts will be required for the party and probably will be obtained by the United States.

RED CROSS WILL BEGIN ACTIVITIES

Oakland Chapter Receives Notice From Headquarters to Start Work; Committees to Be Named to Pursue Plans

Headquarters Will Be Opened and Training Given Workers in Preparation for Possible War; to Make Supplies

Local Red Cross circles took on the appearance of activity this morning with the receipt by the Oakland Chapter of the American National Red Cross, of a telegram from the National Red Cross Association to take immediate steps for the mobilizing of the organization's facilities "for possible developments."

The orders to the local chapter came in the form of a telegram from Elliott Wadsworth, acting-chairman of the national body, to Miss S. L. Rutley, 3810 Telegraph avenue, secretary of the Oakland Red Cross chapter. It calls upon the Oakland chapter to make adequate preparations to carry out the work for which the organization is chartered by Congress, by establishing headquarters, and appointing committees for financial, hospital, surgical, nursing and educational work.

Pursuant to this telegram, a meeting of the local Red Cross members is to be called within the next twenty-four hours to take steps to comply with the orders sent out from the central committee of the American National Red Cross Society. Prominent society women and well known philanthropists, who are members of the organization, together with numbers of prominent business men, will be present at the meeting and will be made to carry out, as far as possible, the wishes of the national committee. The telegram follows:

TELEGRAM RECEIVED.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 3.—Miss S. L. Rutley, Secretary Oakland Red Cross Chapter, Oakland, Cal.

"In view of present events and possible developments, the central committee desires each chapter immediately to make adequate preparations to carry out the work for which the Red Cross is chartered by Congress. Call a meeting of the executive committee of your chapter at once and make tentative arrangements, capable of quick completion, for roomy centrally located headquarters, rent free, and equipment for same.

"If not already active, appoint the following committees: Finance, hospital, garments and surgical supplies, comfort bags, packing and shipping, publicity and information and motor service. Also a committee on co-operation with outside organizations, which should begin work at once.

"File names and addresses of all volunteers, assigning them to the committees named above. Appoint a committee on education. For information concerning courses of instruction for lay women, inquire of the Bureau of Nursing Service at Washington. Refer graduate nurses to the same bureau. Doctors volunteering should be referred to Washington.

WOULD TRAIN MEN.

"Men wishing to volunteer for service should take the first-aid course and the possibility of organizing a sanitary training detachment should be taken up at once.

"Present to the public the vital importance of a large supporting chapter membership and appoint a special committee to conduct an aggressive membership enrollment. Detailed instructions will be sent as needs develop. The central committee asks prompt acknowledgement by letter or telegram of these instructions, giving an outline of your preparations. Call freely on headquarters for full co-operation since the central committee realizing the opportunity for service to the country, bespeaks every effort for complete and thorough organization for possible needs."

German Foreign Secy. Declares Decision Astonishing

BY UNITED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

BERLIN, Feb. 5.—"There is no step backward," declared Foreign Secretary Zimmerman today in an interview published by the Berlin Tageblatt commenting on President Wilson's breaking of relations with Germany. "President Wilson's decision is astonishing.

"The entente's refusal of our peace overtures left us no other step open except unlimited submarine warfare in the fight for our existence against the entente's violations of international law.

"America denied us assistance. We made no condition—much less promises—to avoid unlimited submarine warfare. We have broken no promises. We hope President Wilson will warn Americans from the blockade zone."

OLD TREATY WILL BE ADHERED TO

Germany Will Not Intern U. S. Citizens, Declared by High Officials.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

BERLIN, via London, Feb. 5.—The Associated Press learns authoritatively that Germany will propose to Ambassador Gerard a special reratification of the Prussian-American treaties of 1799 and 1828, allowing nationals in case of war nine months in which to settle their affairs and leave hostile countries. This step would positively insure Americans in Germany and Germans in America against internment, if hostilities break out and would prevent a precipitate exodus from either country such as was general in Europe, when the war began.

A representative of the foreign office pointed out to a correspondent of the Associated Press that the ancient treaties between the United States and Prussia were still in effect and contained a clause, contrary to the usual rule, that they should not be invalidated by the outbreak of hostilities. This official said that so far as he was informed, Germany certainly would hold to these treaties and that there would be no question of interning Americans in Germany in case of war.

In official quarters there seemed to be anxiety to reassure the few Americans still here on the question of internment. Several of these Americans are in a highly difficult position with no prospective means of returning to the United States except by the trans-Siberian Railroad or possibly by a roundabout route through Switzerland to Spain and by Spanish steamers to Cuba. Scores of Americans have applied since Wednesday for the necessary permission to leave the country, but this involves a delay of at least a fortnight. Others, including long-time residents whose entire interests are in Germany, plan to remain no matter what happens.

Socialist Suggests Neutralizing Territory

PASADENA, Feb. 5.—That all territory taken from the central powers be neutralized under international guarantee is the suggestion made by Upton Sinclair, Socialist writer, in a telegram to President Wilson today urging the immediate use of the American navy in keeping the sea lanes to Europe open. Mr. Sinclair believes that in return for the assistance of the United States the entente powers would promise not to profit territorially by victory over Germany.

East Bay Company Will Ask for Permission to Increase Charges; Old Pact to Be Disregarded Is Intimation Made

Titus-Pendleton Agreement to Be Forgotten, Is Hinted at Meeting When Changes Are Discussed by the Officials

Open intimation that the Peoples Water Company, now known under its reorganization name of East Bay Water Company, intended to disregard the Titus-Pendleton agreement of June 30, 1911, under which the City of Oakland secured a 30 per cent reduction in its water rate, was made today at the opening of the State Railroad Commission's hearing in the City Hall, into east bay water rates and conditions.

The intimation came from Attorney Weddington Creed, chief counsel for the East Bay Water Company, during the direct examination of Chief Engineer George Wilhelm of the company, upon sources of supply and arrangements of the distribution system, when he declared that the water company had always considered the matter in the light of a "working agreement between the City of Oakland and the water company."

Creed's statement bears out the fears expressed in Oakland's plea of intervention filed with the State Railroad Commission on January 25, this year, that the status of the agreement was being disregarded.

The hearing, which is before Commissioner Edwin O. Edgerton, is to take into consideration the entire properties and holdings of the East Bay Water Company, upon which a valuation of $14,100,000 has been fixed. Former Mayor Frank Mott and J. H. Derge will act as appraisers of the realty holdings for the City of Oakland. Frank H. Woodward has been summoned as realty expert for the commission, while J. H. Lippincott of Los Angeles, the builder of the great southern aqueduct, will appear as engineering expert for the Peoples Water Company interests.

TREND TOWARD SPLIT.

Early in the session, the trend toward a split consideration of the status of the water company's properties became apparent. The morning was taken up with the direct examination of Chief Engineer Wilhelm.

At the conclusion of his testimony the various municipalities affected will present evidence tending to show that an alteration of rates should be had. The consensus of opinion among east bay financiers, bankers, water experts, engineers and attorneys present, was that there was every possibility of a higher rate being established as a result of the Commission's findings due to extensions in the operative outlay of the company during the past year.

Wilhelm testified that the average daily draft upon the supply system of the company for the past year amounted to 17,700,000 gallons per day, from the total source of supply. The bulk of this amount, he said, came from Chabot Lake, the Alvarado, San Pablo, Berryman wells, Wildcat creek, the Summit tunnels and Temescal lake. Wilhelm declared that the supply systems were interlinked and one community drew from another as conditions warranted.

At this juncture in the hearing, Attorney John S. Partridge of San Francisco, special attorney for the city of Oakland, interjected a question which outlined the whole future trend of the commission's investigation.

UNIT SYSTEM URGED.

Partridge wanted to know whether the separate communities were to be the basis of the fixing of future water rates, in the opinion of the commission, or the whole east bay district as a unit. Attorney Creed of the water company declared for the unit system. Partridge's objection brought out the fact that the rate was based upon the value of operating expenses, and that these were different for separate districts.

Commissioner Edgerton declared that the determination of this point, which he recognized as of vital importance to the east bay district in effecting an equable water rate, would be made after the whole testimony was in.

The direct status of the Titus-Pendleton afreement was touched upon only in a collateral way. It is the wish of the city of Oakland that the agreement made in 1908 and operative in 1911, have some position determined in the water embroglio of the municipality's affairs, and its force in the present situation outlined by the commission. The city's second request is that after the status of this

Boxes at Ad-Masque Ball To Be Connected by Phone

Wire to Aid Terpsichore at Pretty Fete; Eight Hundred Pieces in One Costume

Dance reservations by telephone!

A telephone in each of the sixty boxes, a miniature telephone directory containing each of the names of the occupants of the boxes, a switchboard and pretty girl operator—this is the big sensation of the second annual Ad-Masque to be staged in the Municipal Auditorium St. Valentine's eve, February 14.

The idea originated with C. H. Moore, district commercial superintendent of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, and the system will be installed by the telephone company at its own expense as the company's contribution to the success of this year's monster advertising carnival and ball.

In a letter to the advertising bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, having the event in charge, Moore offered to install a complete telephone system between the boxes, with a central operator directing the switchboard, together with a miniature telephone directory with names of boxholders and blank leaves for the dance program. The offer was immediately accepted by the ad men.

Nothing like this has ever before been attempted at a similar celebration. The idea is acclaimed as the most original yet presented in the preparations for the Ad-Masque.

"Hello, may I have this dance?"

"Yes, indeed, if you make your way through the crowd to our box."

That is the 1917 Ad-Masque way of aiding terpsichore by wire.

And it goes to show that the Ad-Masque calls forth the creative thought and ideas of men and women.

ORIGINALITY IN DRESS.

Originality is well expressed in the announcement of Mrs. F. P. Bushnell, of 1409 Twenty-third avenue, who will appear in the Ad-Masque pageant in a yama-yama suit which she has spent six months' labor making.

This unique costume contains 800 pieces of silk, fourteen yards of lining, five yards of rubber and required the use of twenty-two spools of silk thread and six spools of cotton thread.

"I made it especially for the Ad-Masque," says Mrs. Bushnell.

Mrs. Bushnell has added a touch of humor to the grotesque costume by lettering the front of the yama-yama suit with these words: "It's not my face—it's my figure."

DECORATIVE EFFECTS.

Under the direction of John Mauerhan of the Curtain Store more than three miles of bunting and other cloth is being used in decorating the Auditorium in preparation for the Ad-Masque. Black and burnt orange form the color scheme for these decorative effects. Miss Lillian Matzek has proved an able assistant to Mauerhan in suggestion ideas of decorations.

Great streamers will hang from the girders and monster chandeliers under the roof of the building. The balconies, the boxes and the upper galleries will make a harmonious whole, combining the distinctive colors—black and burnt orange.

PRIZES WITHDRAWN.

Owing to the difficulty of presenting an impersonation of the objects for which advertising clubs are organized, the Ad-Masque committee has withdrawn the prizes of $10, $5 and $2.50 for this idea and substituted a $25 prize for the handsomest lady's costume appearing on the floor during the evening.

Indicative of the demand for tickets and the value placed upon them was the purchase of two seats for $6 by Freed E. Reed. Reed bought the admissions at auction before the Rotary Club at its last Thursday's luncheon.

agreement is determined, a just and equable rate be established.

"The question of uniform water rates depends upon so many things," Commissioner Edgerton said, "that we must know how inter-dependent the various parts of the system are upon each other. Where one community is drawing upon another community this is hard to determine. That is in a great measure one of our hardest tasks."

HIGHER RATE.

The possibility of a higher water rate being established, while not considered probable, is seriously considered as a possibility by east bay financiers, through expenditures which the water company has made in building a $1,000,000 dam at San Pablo to increase its water supply system, and the installation of more than 6000 new service connections with several miles of pipes and other appliances during the past year. These additions may not increase the rate, it is said, if augmented business offsets these expenditures when the work of re-appraising the property is finished by the commission and the new rate or rates determined. This work, heretofore performed by the city council for Oakland, will be performed this year, as the result of the commission's hearing, by the latter body for all the east bay communities.

Among the complaints which first brought the matter to the attention of the State Railroad Commission on petitions from various communities were the allegations of Berkeley and Richmond that the pressure in the mains was too low, the rates charged too excessive and the quality of the water not up to standard. Following the petition for a hearing by these two cities the commission decided to go into the entire phase of the east bay water district, for the final adjudication of all dissentions over rates and property valuations.

NOTED MEN ATTEND.

Among those present at today's hearing were the following: Commissioner Edwin O. Edgerton, Weddington Creed, chief counsel for the East Bay Water Company; Arthur Tasheira and Samuel Spring, associate counsel; John Partridge, chief counsel and special representative for the city of Oakland; Mayor John L. Davie, J. H. Dockweiler, special engineer for the city of Oakland; A. F. St. Sure, city attorney of Alameda; D. J. Hall, city attorney of Richmond; Oliver Ellsworth, mayor of Piedmont; T. H. Pendleton, father of the Titus-Pendleton agreement; T. C. Judkins, city attorney of Emeryville; F. H. Woodward, valuation expert; B. D. M. Green, special counsel for Berkeley; S. M. Marks, superintendent of the Peoples Water Company, and scores of east bay engineers, attorneys and other interested persons.

The hearing will be continued tomorrow.

PASTORS SUPPORT PRESIDENT'S STAND

Christian Men Are Urged to Be Ready to Defend Law of Nations.

Loyalty to national ideals and unanimous support of President Wilson in his attitude toward the German violations of the dictates of international law and the freedom of the seas were the keynotes of many sermons in Oakland and bay city churches yesterday. From every pulpit where the subject was mentioned came the same admonitions to patriotism and the same prayers that the nation may not be drawn into the world-war.

"In view of present developments," said the Rev. Edward Lamb Parsons of St. Mark's church, "it is time for us to stand ready as Christian men to defend the law of nations. We cannot admit of the ruthless submarine activities that are promised by Germany."

The Rev. W. K. Towner, pastor of the First Baptist church, said:

"War is unnecessary, injurious, irrational and iniquitous. We have not courted trouble, but have religiously avoided it. Now it appears that we are to be involved in it. Disease, disaster and death are not welcome, but when they come there is nothing for us as Christians and as men to do but to play our proper parts."

ONLY COURSE OF HONOR.

Rev. F. W. Clampett of Trinity Episcopal church, San Francisco, declared that "not since the grave events that preceded the first shot in 1861 has this Republic faced such a serious problem as the present world crisis has developed. It calls for the play of the mightiest moral principles. In a very special sense the prayers of the nation should ascend that God will guide by His counsel Woodrow Wilson, our President. His course is the only course of honor and justice."

"We stand loyally behind our President today," said the Rev. Josiah Sibley of Calvary Presbyterian church. "We pray that we may not be dragged into the war, but come what may, the stand of our government is for justice and humanity, and deserves our loyal support."

STAND BEHIND WILSON.

Rabbi Jacob Nieto of Congregational Sherith Israel exhorted his audience that "in this crucial moment it is the duty of every citizen of the United States to stand squarely behind our President in his endeavors to bring about a condition consistent with the dignity and honor of our nation."

Speaking before the members of the Newman Club in Berkeley yesterday, W. Bourke Cockran, the New York attorney, declared that all Catholics in the United States will stand by the flag and behind the president.

"The position the President takes is the position we must take," he said. "Christian civilization is threatened and our prosperity is likewise menaced. International law grew out of Christianity, and now that it is threatened, that God that this nation is to defend it. International law is the outgrowth of the law of chivalry, and the law of chivalry was founded by the Catholic church."

Loses Life Under Overturning Auto

LIVERMORE, Feb. 5.—Joseph Mederos, a ranch hand, was killed and three others injured, when a machine in which they were riding skidded on a curve on the State Highway near here late Saturday night and, striking a tree, turned turtle.

Mederos was instantly crushed to death by the overturned machine. John Bez, a garage employee of this place, and Frank and Edward Wales, mechanics of Newark, were hurled some distance and severely bruised and cut about the face and body. Passing automobiles picked up the dead and injured men and brought them into town.

Mederos was found to have a fractured skull and crushed ribs. None of the others were seriously injured.

HOUSE COMMITTEE PASSES ON BILL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The House Interstate Commerce committee today authorized Chairman Adamson to redraft and introduce his railway bill and promised favorable recommendation.

Amendments to this bill knock out the proposed eight-hour law and the strike-prevention plan—the latter attacked by railroad employees.

The Supreme Court today took no action on the Adamson eight-hour law, and recessed until March 5.

Shriners Make Merry at Truckee Outing

TRUCKEE, Feb. 5.—King winter sport reigned in full revelry and splendor Sunday when a crowd of over two hundred Mystic Shriners, together with their families, closed their stay of two days with a program of keen exhilarating snow sport at Truckee. It was a veritable fiesta of the snows and Sunday's sport was one of joy, gaiety and snow fun.

John D. McGilvray, potentate of the Islam Temple; Harry Maundrell, grand past potentate, and Marshall Hale led the festivity and were in the thick of the snowball frays. Ed Schroeder and C. Wold got "cold feet" from too much speed. One of yesterday's features was a ski jumping contest in which Hugh Couples of Truckee came out victor in a series of spectacular leaps.

EAST OAKLAND BANK IS SOLD

Oakland Institution Takes Over Smaller One as a New Branch.

The Twenty-third Avenue Bank has been purchased by the Oakland Bank of Savings and will hereafter be conducted as the East Oakland Branch of the larger financial institution, according to announcement made today by President W. W. Garthwaite. Negotiations for the sale of the smaller bank had been under way for some time, and the purchase was consummated today. The assets of the Twenty-third Avenue Bank, approximately $300,000, will be consolidated with those of the larger bank.

Under the management of G. W. Ellis, the East Oakland branch of the Oakland Bank of Savings will be equipped for a complete banking service and will offer quicker facilities for business to present customers who live east of Lake Merritt. This makes the third branch of the Oakland Bank of Savings, one being located in West Oakland on Seventh street and one in Berkeley on Shattuck avenue.

Front Lease Terms Soon to Be Finished

The work of completing the final terms of the waterfront lease under which the city of Oakland is willing to market its water bay frontage to a suitable bidder will be undertaken by the members of the conference committee in the Mayor's office in the city hall tomorrow night.

The changing of the guarantee deposit of $100,000 to be deposited until the lessee had performed that amount of work, to $300,000 to remain until improvements in the sum of $1,000,000 had been completed, the elimination of F. M. Smith and associates from further consideration save as regular bidders, and the changing of certain minor terms and provisions comprised the main portion of the work accomplished by the committee on Saturday night.

The Committee of Fifty on outer harbor development, which prepared the original terms for submission to Smith, agreed last week to abide by the findings of the Conference Committee in the matter of making a suitable lease to safeguard municipal interests. Representatives of the advisory committee of fifteen, the port commission and the Alameda County Civic Association, which compose the conference committee, assured the latter organization that their respective organizations would also endorse the conference committee's action.

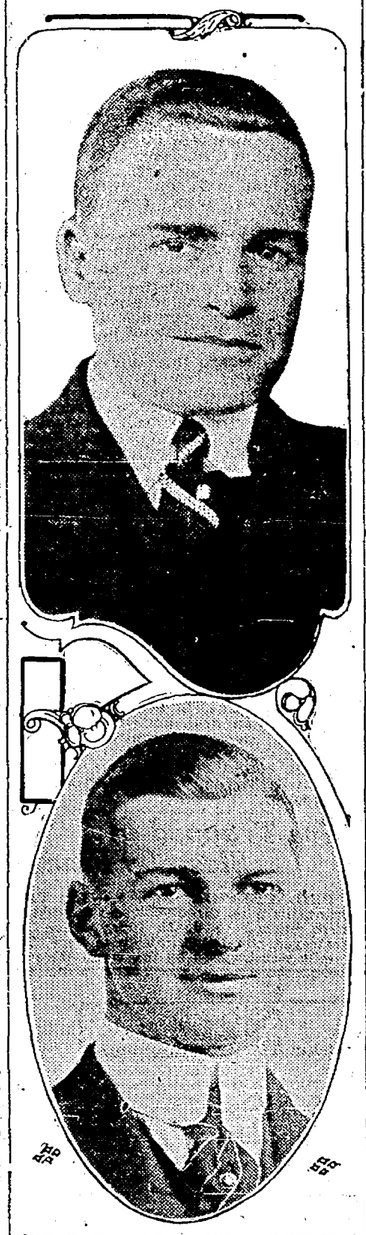

On this basis, the committee will resume its efforts to whip the lease into the best possible shape tomorrow night. Harrison S. Robinson will preside and the majority of the committee will be present.

Liquor Sold to Boys; License Suspended

Upon recommendation of Chief of Police Petersen the city council today suspended for a period of sixty days the saloon license held by David A. Bliss and Herman P. Lide for the B. & L. cafe at 1539 Broadway. Chief Petersen first recommended that the license be revoked, but stated that he would be satisfied with the lesser penalty.

The action was taken following the hearing of a complaint in which it was shown that three minor boys were served intoxicants there last night, with the result that they were arrested on charges of drunkeness at East Fourteenth street and Thirteenth avenue, soon before 3 o'clock this morning.

Stanford Lads Are on Way for French Service

EDWARD R. BLOTE (top) and WALTER B. SNOOK.

TRIBUNE BUREAU
683 MARKET ST.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5. — With the interwoven flags of France and the United States surmounted by the motto "For Humanity and the Humanities" inscribed on their sleeve brassards, twenty-one young college men from Stanford University left here yesterday morning for New York, where they will embark for service with the American Volunteer Ambulance corps in France.

Their departure was watched with varied emotions by mothers of many of them; sisters and other members of their families. From the east side of the bay, came two boys, Walter B. Snook of Berkeley and Harold C. Blote of Oakland, while from this city were several of the party which entrained for active service on the firing line.

The Society of the Friends of France presented each lad with an American flag and little farewell gifts and mementoes. With them also went eleven trunks of clothing for men, women and children among the destitute residents of Northern France. To most of the boys it was a lark, in which much experience was to be gained. But to the families of most of them, there was a lurking hint of grim tragedy beneath it all.

The boys will arrive in New York next Thursday, where they will be met by Henry Sleeper, head of the Boston headquarters of the American Volunteer Ambulance corps. Sleeper has arranged transportation for the valiant company of hospital volunteers to France, where they are badly needed. The California delegation will be joined at New York by delegations from practically every other college and university in the country, where similar recruiting work has been done by French organizations.

Walter Snook is the son of Dr. John Snook, San Francisco and Oakland physician. He is 19 years of age, a freshman in Stanford, a member of the freshman football team and a prominent member of the Sigma Nu fraternity. He was graduated from the Berkeley High school two years ago. Harold Blote, the Oakland lad, is the son of William E. Blote, retired Wells-Fargo employee, and a brother of Edward R. Blote, deputy city treasurer of Oakland. He is 23 years of age, and in his junior year at Stanford. Both lads have been close friends and joined the hospital movement together.

COUNCIL IS ASKED FOR AMENDMENT

Extensive System to Handle Increases in Shipping on Big Program; Means Greater Improvements Than Planned

Lawrence Warehouse Project Not to Be Carried Through, Declares Commissioner; City and Builder Cannot Agree

Application was made to the city council by the Southern Pacific Company today for an amendment to its franchise for operating wharves to the south of the broad guage mole, which will entail an expenditure of more than $1,000,000 in excess of the former plans for the improvements as contained in the Memorandum of Agreements between the railroad company and the city.

The application was made by Vice-President W. R. Scott, who outlined the plans of the company as including the construction of diagonal piers adjoining the bulkhead recently constructed to the south of the mole, instead of an apron wharf as provided for in the original plans.

PREPARING FOR FUTURE.

The action of the railroad company in making the request at this time indicates that it is preparing for a greater volume of business than was anticipated several years ago when the plans were drawn.

This increase of facilities is made necessary by reason of the agreement of the company to remove the Long Wharf, back to a line even with the broad-guage mole terminal. This removal is to be completed by November, 1918, according to the agreement. By that time the new piers will have been constructed, according to the new plans, and providing that the city allow the change in the franchise.

That the Lawrence Warehouse Company will not accept the proposition offered by the city providing for the construction by the company of a warehouse costing $160,000 on the city estuary front was stated by Commissioner Anderson today incidental with discussion over a request for extension of time to the company for removing nearly 2000 tons of merchandise now stored in the municipal warehouse at the foot of Clay street. Upon motion of Commissioner Anderson the resolution offered by Commissioner Baccus last week granting the company sixty days to remove the goods was amended to read thirty days. By that time it is probable that the firm of Libby, McNeil & Libby of Chicago will have completed arrangements for handling the merchandise on their own property. Representatives of the company are in Oakland today looking over sites on the waterfront on which to construct a warehouse. In the meantime no charge for demurrage will be made on the goods. The charge would amount to nearly $100 a day.

NO DETAILS OUT.

Whether the Lawrence company will locate on some other site in Oakland or abandon its plan to erect or lease a warehouse has not been stated, Commissioner Anderson declaring that the management of the company has expressed itself as disappointed with the attitude of the authorities in acting upon their case.

The port commission, which was asked regarding the proposition of extending time to the company, reported back to the council today that the situation was covered in a former report, "but," continued the communication, "at the same time we venture to emphasize the necessity of the prompt closing of business negotiations if the commercial affairs of the city are to go forward.

"It is not the province of the port commission to prepare the papers necessary to actual closing of the waterfront business matters and yet we anticipate that our advisory work will often go for naught if weeks or months are allowed to elapse between the time when we get a party ready to close and the time when the proper authorities of the city st to work to actually close he deal."

Yesterday was a day of rest in the contest for the queen of the Ad-Masque carnival. At least it was a day of rest as far as depositing any votes was concerned, and there will be no counting of votes until this afternoon, at the usual time. For that reason no new announcement is made of the standing of the candidates and the figures as printed Sunday morning are again run, merely for the purpose of letting the candidates and their friends know just how everybody stands at the beginning of the second and last week of the great race.

This is the week when there will have to be "something doing all the time," because the last vote will have to be deposited in the office of The TRIBUNE by 10 o'clock on Saturday evening next. The counting of the vote will then begin and the great contest will be over. That will give the successful candidate for queen an opportunity to have her royal robes finished and to prepare for the carnival over which she will preside. The costume is already being designed and is in the hands of the most competent costume artists in this city, but it will take some little time to finish the costume. For that reason the voting will positively close Saturday night and the announcement will be made in The TRIBUNE of Sunday morning next.

That is why the coming week will be a busy one with the candidates and their friends.

There are a few things to be remembered in this, the last week of the contest.

In the first place, get your votes in.

It is all right to hold votes during the opening week of the contest, but it should not be done during the last week.

Nobody wants to be on a losing candidate, and to keep figures down is a discouragement to those who are trying to get votes. There is nothing like enthusiasm to encourage workers, and there is nothing that will stimulate enthusiasm to such a degree as the belief that one's favorite candidate is going to win, and there is nothing that contributes to such a belief as the ocular demonstration of the standing of each candidate. It is not so much for the information of the candidate herself, for everyone is keeping her own set of figures, and she knows, even before The TRIBUNE itself, just about how she stands.

But it makes for the encouragement of the workers to know how their candidate stands, and for that reason the candidates are urged, for their own sakes, to deposit their votes early.

Votes are beginning to come in from outside cities. There is interest in the Oakland Ad-Masque carnival and its queen contest all through the Sacramento valley, in Vallejo and in all of the cities of Alameda county. This shows that Oakland is being well advertised by the carnival and the queen contest.

But also forces closer at home are being mobilized and brought into fighting formation for the last week of the contest.

The announcement came from automobile row that the cause of Mary Clifford had been espoused by the Hupmobile agency in Oakland and they were going to gather votes for her. This means a big support for the little lady, for live wires who can sell Hupmobile autos can sell subscriptions for The TRIBUNE and they are out to make a showing for their candidate. This accounts for the fact that Mary Clifford passed Lyla Rogers in the count announced Sunday morning. Many votes from out of town are coming in for Miss Clifford.

On the other hand, Lyla Rogers was queen of the Ad-Masque a year ago, and she has had experience in such a contest. The friends of Miss Rogers say that they have not been asleep and that they are out to win.

But it must be remembered that the returns up to Sunday morning show that any one of these candidates can win by the right kind of systematic and energetic work.

The TRIBUNE is willing to tell anyone how and what they can do. Call at the office of The TRIBUNE and details will be given. There is much that can be done in one week, and The TRIBUNE is willing to help anyone who wants to do that work. The TRIBUNE will help, but the friends of the candidate must help as well. Every candidate on that list has friends enough, who, if they will give a little time and energy to her cause during this last week can make her queen of the carnival.

Will these friends help their candidate as much as The TRIBUNE is willing to help?

Come down to the office at once and The TRIBUNE will tell you how and will start you.

Do as much for your candidate as The TRIBUNE is willing to do and your candidate will win.

The TRIBUNE is trying to show that every candidate has a chance.

That is why this contest is so fair and liberal, and why The TRIBUNE has never felt any hesitation in urging everybody to take an interest in getting votes. Even if your candidate does not become queen she can get a prize.

And now we will see what the second and last week of the race will bring forth. The first figures of this last struggle will be announced tomorrow evening, and it looks as if the week was going to open with a bang and that it would finish in a whirl of votes.

MARIE LOEB.

FIVE STARS AT THE ORPHEUM

By Ad Schuster.

With Will M. Cressy, Orville Harrold, Trovato, Harry Mason and Wallace Galvin on one bill, what more could anyone ask? It will be noticed that the five are men and the fact that the ruder sex is taking the honors is but one of the features of this week's show. Maybe it was done with premeditation and maybe it was just an accident, but there is not one of those "he" and "she" patter acts on the program and—stranger yet!—not a dance.

Will Cressy and Blanche Dayne have the latest of Cressy's 142 sketches, one that gives him an opportunity for the character work in which he excels. As a country lawyer on a "city" case Cressy presents a shrewd, suspicious and likable type. The same Blanche Dayne who has charmed before and Marion Hodges, a most attractive girl, take the other parts.

Orville Harrold is the tenor who created the sensation in Victor Herbert's "Naughty Marietta." He sings his big number from that piece, a bit of grand opera, and the usual Irish melody, and is encored until the roof trembles.

Trovato with the black hair, sparkling eyes, and animated violin is answering on the strings, whistled calls sent him from the house, and is making in a hundred ways, the instrument do everything but talk. If ever there was one who was poppingly full of pep it is he. He was greeted with an outburst of applause and forced to make a speech at the close.

Marvelous tricks with cards and the famous egg and hat trick are done by Wallace Galvin "with the assistance of a small boy." With the present price of eggs in effect, Galvin's ability to make them appear at will and his reckless handling of them takes on an interest that is more than envy.

Harry Lester Mason, who has been seen here as "The Janitor" in a monologue stunt, does much the same with a "waiter" as his subject. He serves a full dish of laughter. Two girls who sing and talk in the immediate neighborhood of a piano are Janet Adair and Miss Adelphi. Janet does most of the talking while Miss Adelphi does the playing and a "good time is had by all."

A dog and pony act that ends with a thrill and which is handsomely mounted is the Howard animal spectacle. Two athletes who have unusual accomplishments show them in surroundings out of the usual picture, when Myrl and Delmar appear in "Over the Garden Gate."

PANTAGES' BILL NOVEL

The essence of blackface comedy is at Pantages this week. Said essence is composed of but two elements—Le Maire and Dawson. These two elements when mixed well are poured over the footlights to relieve thousands of their every ill. They cure through laughter—these elements composing the specific, Le Maire and Dawson. There is reason for the success that comes to them—they are original and their material is new, full of snap and right in keeping with their dusky faces.

Sea lions and pretty girls sport in a great glass tank for our amusement. Winston's diving nymphs and water lions are right at home in the downy. The lions do tricks in the water at the command in their master's voice while the nymphs enter into competition with them for grace supremacy.

Joe Roberts of banjo fame comes back to us again for several interesting selections and more than several encores. We could listen to twenty banjo encores as given us by this genius of the pick and string. He is complete master of the southern instrument.

Lighter and better known selections from opera were rendered by the La Scala Sextette in a way calculated to win genuine appreciation not only from music lovers but from the hardened vaudeville himself. Well trained voices and poise made the act an instant favorite with Oakland audiences.

Although the Swedish gentleman lost his accent not infrequently while Biele and Gerard were cavorting for everyone's laughter he more than made it up when he sang the old but ever-beloved "Alex' Ragtime Aggregation." A funny couple.

Sterling and Marguerite, who open the bill, prove themselves rapid-fire performers on the rings and horizontal bar. The pulchritude of the feminine portion of the act and the smooth manner with which the two carried out their routine brought generous applause from everyone around the place.

Florence Merritt, with a sturdy voice and jolly manner, won approbation after singing several current and popular melodies.

MACDONOUGH PLAY HIT

"The Bird of Paradise," Richard Walton Tully's exotic play of Hawaii, with its tropic charm and legends, charmed anew last night at the Macdonough, where the play is to play a fourth season. This time there is a new "Luana"—one whose interpretation of the part of the little Hawaiian princess is fully as interesting as that of any of her predecessors. Hawaiian music, the famous "volcano scene" and all the rest of the gorgeous setting and effects for which the play is noted, aided in making the story of island life one of the most notable of visitors at the playhouse this season.

The cast of the present offering is specially interesting. David Landau, the original "Ten Thousand Dollar Dean," is seen in his old role. Olin Field, the new "Luana," is pretty as well as a clever actress, and supporting her are Arthur Maitland, Minnie Caruthers, Mabel Emerson, Laura Adams, James Nelson, Roe Chaplin, John Gribner, Robert Morris, Frances Newhall, Gladys Banks, Herbert Pratt, George Banta, James Applebee, George Hill and a troupe of native Hawaiians.

'FAT' COLUMBIA 'ARTIST'

William (Fat) L'Heureux, fighting tenor, made his debut at the Columbia theater yesterday afternoon and made an instantaneous hit with the patrons of the playhouse when he offered a selected program of musical hits featuring "Turn Back the Universe" in connection with the big production of "Canary Cottage."

The musical comedy, during the course of which L'Heureux makes his initial bow, is one of the brightest yet written by Harry Bernard and was a laugh from start to finish. The major portion of the comedy was in the hands of Will King, who enacted the role of "Ike Leschinsky," a guard in an insane asylum and whose work was as distinctive as ever.

King was supported by a big troupe of players, including Harry Bernard, who took the role of a guard; Laura Vail, who appeared as a society butterfly; Clair Starr, Reece Gardner, Will Hayes, Jack Wise, Henry Martin and Teddy La Due as an inmate. All of the players had good roles and were seen to advantage in the production.

The musical program arranged by Director Herman King and Ballet Mistress Nellie Harding was short but replete with features. Jack Wise stopped the show with "Take Me Back to Alabam'," a rollicking rag sung in Wise's inimitable fashion. Clair Starr made a big hit with "Mary, You're a Little Bit Old-Fashioned," in which the chorus played a prominent part.

NOTED PLAYERS COMING

The coming concerts of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, which take place in the Opera House of the Oakland auditorium, will be well attended, as they are attracting the attention of all classes of music lovers on both sides of the bay. The ticket sale is now in progress at Sherman & Clay Company's music stores in both Oakland and San Francisco, and indicates that big crowds will assemble to hear the two fine programs that are to be rendered by Director Oberhoffer and his excellent orchestral organization from the "Mill City." A "Pop-Symphony" is to be given next Saturday afternoon, at popular prices, but the program is an important one and calls for serious consideration. The second Kallinikow Symphony, Dvorak's overture "Carnevale," Wagner's "Albumblatt," "Three Native Dances" by Dargomijsky and Skilton, Max Reger's lovely Ballet Suite, and Liszt's ever-popular Second Rhapsodie, are among the numbers. On Saturday night next a Soloist-Symphony Concert with a really remarkable program is scheduled. Among the works to be played are the best of all the Tschaikowsky symphonies, the fourth, the famous violoncello Concerto by Saint-Saens, with Cornelius Van Vliet, as the soloist, Wagner's "Prelude to Lohengrin" and "Ride of the Valkyries," Sibelius' tone-poem "Finlandia," and the Bacchanalle from Glazounow's suite, "The Seasons."

Too Many Funerals Bad for Optimists

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 5.—Because the mournful strains of the "Dead March" and the sight of numerous military funerals impress a noticeable psychological depression upon the city, a movement is under way to divert the funeral processions from the main streets to less frequented channels. Funerals average from one to four day. The band plays a funeral march for each one.

OVERWORKED MINISTER

Tells How Vinol Restored Strength and Vitality.

Oakland people will realize that we could not publish such letters as the following if they were not genuine and truthful statements of facts. The Rev. Mr. Hughes, Holly Springs, Ark., says:

"I am a Methodist Minister, and suffered from broken-down nerves, loss of appetite and sleeplessness. I was weak, my circulation was very poor, and I was not able to do my duty in my parish as I felt I should. I had tried various remedies but did not seem to get any better. Through Mr. Gatlin of Bearden, Ark., I learned of Vinol, and it built me up. I regained my appetite, can sleep better and do more work."

There is no secret about Vinol; it derives its power to build up the overworked, broken-down, nervous system from beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptonates, and glycerophosphates, etc., which it contains.

Anyone in Oakland who wishes to try Vinol can do so with the understanding that we will return their money if they are not satisfied.

Marie Doro Stars In Film at T & D

Remember the wonderful portrayal, exquisite Marie Doro furnished, in the Paramount Picture, "Oliver Twist," which appeared in the new T. & D. theater, a couple of weeks ago? 'Twas good, wasn't it? Now this winsome little miss appears in another masterpiece on the T. & D. program entitled "Lost and Won," in which she plays the leading role, that of a pitiful waif of a newsgirl, "Cinders," who later becomes a reporter and through a series of gripping scenes, a society debutante.

An excellent story, dramatically enacted, with exceptional setting, "Lost and Won" is sure to please the most exacting follower of the silent drama. Its companion feature on the same bill, this Sunday to Tuesday program at the new T. & D. theater, Eleventh street, at Broadway, stars little Gladys Hulette in a photo play replete with smiles and thrills—"Her New York."

An announcement by Manager G. E. Thornton is to the effect that Mary Pickford is to be shown exclusively at the new T. & D. in "The Pride of the Clan," a Scotch story, for four days only, beginning Wednesday, February 7.

Desmond Is Star In Franklin Film

William Desmond, Triangle star, has a part which reveals him in a new light in his play from the pen of C. Gardner Sullivan, entitled "The Iced Bullet," which is now showing at the Franklin Theater. The play is declared to be a distinct novelty, in that it begins as a screaming farce and suddenly develops into powerful drama.

"The Iced Bullet" is the serio-comic unweaving of an intensely dramatic fabric, in which an actor's ambitions mingle with a murder mystery. It narrates the adventures of a young man who describes himself as an actor-author-artist, in the mazes of "movieland." He visits the Inco plant, bent on selling a play and enacting the leading role thereof. How he fares in his quest for fame forms the start and finish of the story, his drama being also presented in full.

FRENCH SOLDIER WILL BE HEARD

Lieutenant Paul Verdier Will Lecture on Life at the Frontier.

At a special meeting of the Oakland Center to be held tonight in the ballroom of the Hotel Oakland, Lieutenant Paul Verdier, home on leave from the fighting frontier of France, will relate his experiences, illustrated by motion pictures.

Miss Mary McDonald, head resident of the University of Chicago Settlement, and Professor C. G. Chinaud of the French department of the University of California, will be other speakers of interest.

The meeting is open to all members of the center, its auxiliaries and its friends. The Chamber of Commerce and other bodies have been invited.

This afternoon moving pictures illustrating conditions that women are seeking to remedy through child welfare work and through legislation were shown for censorship before an audience composed of the board of the Oakland Center of the California Civic League and the chairmen of the various committees.

The pictures, which are shown from an educational standpoint, will be sent later on tour to the different centers and clubs in California connected with the California Civic League. It is planned to have these exhibitions of things interesting to women either monthly or twice a month, according to the demand.

VATICAN MAY BECOME STRONG PEACE AGENCY

Wilson's Course of Action Toward Berlin Is Keenly Watched

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

ROME, Feb. 5.—President Wilson's course of action toward Berlin is being keenly watched at the Vatican. The suddenness with which the United States broke off relations with Germany caused considerable surprise.

It is felt that, in view of the new trend of events precipitated by Germany's declaration of ruthless submarine warfare, the Vatican is emerging as one of the strongest neutral agencies that has an opportunity to intervene for peace.

Whether or not the Vatican would prove satisfactory to all the belligerents as a peace mediator is doubtful, although Germany has already made known her attitude, as well as that of her allies, by addressing a peace note to the Vatican in December.

Policeman Is Killed; Beggar Is Suspect

STOCKTON, Feb. 5.—John Brisco, police officer, was shot and killed by one of two men whom he was seeking to arrest early this morning near the entrance to the police station.

A man giving the name of John Boom, but whom the police declare is John Schoon, an ex-convict, was arrested after a chase and will be charged with murder.

The second man is still at large. The men had been begging and had grown insolent in their demands for money. Brisco leaves a wife and three small children.

Inside Stuff
By "Billy Fitz"

THE knockout of Willie Hoppe at Sacramento last week was considerable of a blow to boxing fans of California who rather figured that the little Butchertown Cyclone was the best man of his weight in the four-round game, unless matched with a top-notcher. Goode is not now and never was a top-notcher, as was shown against Johnny Arrousey at Emeryville and against Frankie Burns at West Oakland. How then did he manage to stop the plunging monarch of the short-round game?

Tommy Simpson, who lost a good deal when Hoppe was beaten because he had visions of a Hoppe-Ortega card, was not a great deal surprised when he heard that Sammy Goode had stopped Hoppe in two rounds by the simple expedient of knocking him down eight times.

"Hoppe ran into it at last," said Simpson. "I've been expecting it right along. Ortega would have turned the same trick just as sure as I'm talking to you.

"Fighters like Hoppe get it sooner or later and they get it in the same way that Johnny Dundee was handed the poppy punch. Hoppe tore in as usual with his head down and no defense, and Goode just measured him with the old right uppercut. Hoppe ran right into it; that's all there was to it."

Jack Skelly, the veteran ringster, pointed out the danger of the Hoppe style when he paid his respects to Johnny Dundee, as follows:

"What speed maniac, jumping jack Johnny Dundee is within the ropes! He is full of what I might term 'false speed.' That is, he is constantly covering too much ground, and takes too many false steps to ever become a good, stiff hitter.

"His habit of backing up against the ropes and using the taut cords to spring him out with force against an opponent, is in my opinion, a very foolish and dangerous caper.

"If Dundee were combating an artist like Joe Gans, Frank Erne or some of the other scientific masters of the past, they would soon show how silly this stunt was. They would either meet him with a swift straight left or sidestep and hand him a walloping right. Johnny could never get away with such ridiculous tactics, if he boxed in the old days, when fighters were real scientists of the manly art."

New York Sun Says We Were Off on Our Interpretation of "Knockout"

The New York Sun takes us to task for our interpretation of what constitutes a knockout. A few weeks ago we undertook to enlighten our readers regarding "dreamland punches," remarking that it was impossible to really knock out an opponent except with a blow to the chin, though of course a stiff blow to the solar plexus or the windpipe may send a man down for the count.

The Sun quotes us at some length and then remarks that the term "knockout" originated from the expression "knocked out of time" and not knocked out of consciousness. Mebbe so, mebbe so; but our assertion still stands that you can't knock a fighter senseless with one punch unless it is placed two inches on either side of the point of the jaw.

"Pop" Van Haltren Was Some Slugger When He Was With the Baltimore Orioles

They are having quite a discussion these days in eastern baseball circles over the players who have made the most hits in a single game. The palm is generally awarded to Wilbert Robinson, Brooklyn manager, who in 1892 when playing with the old Baltimore Orioles got seven safe blows in a single game. Baltimore beat St. Louis that day 25 to 4. There have been one or two instances when Robinson's feat was equaled, but never in major league baseball. In the game beside Robinson were several more sluggers, one of them "Pop" Van Haltren, now living in Oakland.

Van Haltren, the Oriole right fielder, was no weakling with the bat. He could be depended on for a hit in any pinch. On July 26 and 27, 1892, in two games he made nine hits in succession, or every time he went to bat. Among his hits were a double and two triples, a total of fourteen bases. He made these hits off Jack Luby and Jimmy Galvin in games against Chicago and St. Louis. It was Galvin's last year in the National League. He came to St. Louis from Pittsburg in a three-cornered deal. Pittsburg traded him to St. Louis for Cub Stricker, and then traded Stricker to Baltimore for William (Adonis- Terry. The trade was made in June. Van Haltren himself near the close of the season also drifted to Pittsburg. On September 25, 1892, he was traded by Baltimore to Pittsburg for Joe Kelley and $2000. Joe had just broken into the big game, having been bought by Pittsburg from Omaha in July for $500.

The result of the annual intercollegiate regatta on the Oakland estuary in April will be keenly watched by eastern critics, for the west is beginning to assert itself in the athletic field with formidable effect.

Oregon's defeat of Pennsylvania on New Year's Day has called the attention of eastern universities to the ever-increasing danger from Pacific Coast athletes. Now they are recalling how close Stanford came to winning the regatta on the Hudson in 1915, and they are wondering whether the Washington crew which is held superior to the Cardinal will go back this spring and shock the east by cleaning up its opponents.

Coach Dobie's nine-year record at Washington with an undefeated football team; Maurice McLoughlin and Willie Johnston's tennis records, and the sterling track performances of Stanford, California and U. S. C. athletes all combine to make the eastern coaches view this section with genuine alarm.

This year Washington has six of last year's oarsmen back under Coach Connibear, men from the best crew it ever produced, and the intention is to take that crew to the intercollegiate regatta in the east should this event become a certainty, providing, of course, it wins from both Stanford and California, and in spite of the fact that its coach stated last year Washington would not be east again. It will be interesting to note what a really good Pacific Coast crew, like this one, can do in eastern company.

WHERE DONNELLY AND COOPER FOUGHT IN IRELAND.

Editor Dunning, the able veteran boxing authority of the London (Eng.) Sportsman, pens the following interesting description of Ireland's famous battleground:

Boxing in the open is, as I have said, quite the vogue these times, but a ready-made hall or theater is a thing one rarely sees or hears of. The only one I can recall to mind is what is known as Donnelly's Hollow, a place situated on the Curragh of Kildare, in Ireland, that I visited when out that way officiating at some military competitions promoted by that fine sporting regiment, the Third Dragoon Guards. Donnelly's Hollow had a peculiar interest for me at the time, just as it has now, for it was the battle-ground of the famous Dan Donnelly-Cooper match, decided so far back as 1816, and won by the Irishman in 22 minutes. Donnelly's Hollow is a notable spot on the Curragh. There is just about room for a ring at the bottom, and the hills that enclose it give a splendid view of whatever takes place. Where the ring was pitched is a monument of marble, giving particulars of the great fight, which brought poets and historians to the fore, who sang the praises and virtues of both winner and loser. The little piece of marble has been much neglected, and, what is more, chipped and broken, by visitors anxious to take away souvenirs of one of the greatest fights in the old style ever seen in the green isle of Erin. Memories of Donnelly Hollow are recalled by another natural amphitheater, which is situated down Seaford way, of all places, and used by the Fourth Royal Infantry Regiment for their military boxing shows. I don't think the place at Seaford is altogether so natural as the one at Curragh, for the theater down south was, I am told, originally a chalk-pit, which is altogether a different thing from the natural hollow at the Curragh. This has never been touched by the hand of man, saving when the monument was erected, and instead of chairs and seats the spectators lolled about and sat on the grassy banks while watching their pet Donnelly win his great fight. In the piping times of peace, and when the Grenadiers, the Irish Guards, and other regiments sent out men as clever with the gloves as are the best professionals of the present day, no man worked harder in the cause of military boxing than Sergeant-Major Fowles. The spirit is still strong in him, for, now Major Fowles, he is responsible for the new arena at North Camp, Seaford, which as the representative of The Sportsman says, "resembles a gigantic basin with tiers of ledges, from which over 20,000 persons can obtain an uninterrupted view of the roped square." On Saturday last Major Fowles gave a very successful tournament, which attracted 7000 spectators, while he had the services, as referee, of the once celebrated Charley Mitchell, twice an opponent of the equally well-known John L. Sullivan. I spent several hours admiring the hollow on the Curragh, and conjuring up pictures of the great fight of Donnelly and Cooper.

'TIP' O'NEILL IS HERE WITH HIS NEWS BUDGET

Neither War or Strike Will Stop Visit of the Cubs.

BY "BILLY FITZ."

The 1917 baseball season entered the hatching period today with the arrival in Oakland of Tip O'Neill, advance agent for the Chicago Cubs. O'Neill breezed into town this morning, had his clothes pressed, got a clean shave, and unburdened himself of a budget of news.

This done, he hurried across the bay to see Danny Long and arrange a schedule for interior games in behalf of the Sheckhard club.

No one dares to refer to Cub Yannigans or Cubs No. 2 in the presence of O'Neill. It is like waiving one of the O'Neill vests at a bull.

"Where do they get that stuff?" chortled Tip this morning. "If Charley Weeghman knew who was going to make the team and who wasn't, do you think he'd bring thirty-five players to the coast? Wish some of these wise birds would oblige Manager Mitchell by picking his team for him right now. I guess the Cub management would be willing to give a fat bonus to anyone who could pick their lineup now, and thus save training camp expenses.

TIP NAMES 'EM.

"I call the two squads the Mitchell club and the Sheckhard club. Sporting writers are making a big mistake in shutting out the Sheckhard club from playing before the bay city fans. Men like Rowdy Elliott, Speed Martin and Swede Risberg will probably be with the Sheckhard club. If those players aren't good enough to appear here with the word 'Cubs' across their breasts on what theory are they good enough to play here with the coast in mid-season?

"The veteran players are the ones who will be chary of playing hard baseball here in March. The youngsters are the ones who will be playing at top speed. The old timer lobs the ball over to first, figuring that he doesn't have to beat the runner until April 11, but the youngster wants to show the boss right off all the stuff that he has. Ain't it the truth?"

O'Neill brought word that the Cubs would arrive at the Hotel Oakland on the morning of Wednesday, March 14, and would play the Oaks here the afternoon of the same day. Thursday afternoon, the Oaks and Cubs meet again. Friday and Saturday afternoons they play the Seals across the bay, and return here for the morning game with Oakland on Sunday. Sunday afternoon, the Cubs and Seals mix again. The same schedule will be followed the second week.

TRIP IS CERTAIN.

O'Neill did not think that the prospect of war or the Players' Fraternity would hamper the Cubs' special from leaving Chicago for Pasadena, February 26.

"Not even if war was declared," said Tip "is the trip likely to be called off. Whatever money is lost on the trip, Charles Wrigley, Cub stockholder, has promised to meet with his personal check."

O'Neill, of course, paid his respects to Davy Fultz with fine sarcasm.

"I've telegraphed Mr. Fultz," said Weeghman's agent, "that in the event of war I am going to hurry back to Washington and use my influence to get him an appointment as a colonel at the head of a brigade of striking ball players. Yes, and I'll try to get them the honor of being in the first trenches."

Discussing the Maier charges, Tip had just this to say:

"If Maier knew there was crooked work going on in this league ever since 1912," as he says, "by keeping quiet this long he became a party to the crime and by his own admission stands convicted.

"Anyone who would attack the integrity of baseball in this country with no evidence to support his charges, commits an unspeakable offense."

O'Neill declared he had no authority to discuss contracts with Elliott, Martin, Risberg, Reuther or any of the other Cub holdouts wintering in California.

"That will be up to someone else," said Tip.

"Chicago fans are warming up to Fred Mitchell, and baseball men generally regard him as a splendid selection."

Tip told the inside story of how Weeghman's attention was first called to Mitchell's possibilities as a manager.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

George Stallings while still holding the Red Sox pilotship came to Cincinnati one day to discuss a trade and met Weeghman. The latter wanted to know how Stallings could afford to leave his club at that time when the race was not yet over.

"Oh," replied Stallings easily, "the brains of the team are still there."

"Who do you mean?", questioned the Cub owner?

"Why, Fred Mitchell," was the response.

Weeghman drew from Stallings the information that Mitchell practically ran the Red Sox machine, and that George figured him as invaluable as a manager.

That set Weeghman to thinking and was really responsible for Mitchell's succession to the Cub throne.

O'Neill will stay here until about February 22, when he will leave for Pasadena to meet the Cubs.

CARD AND WASH FIVES TONIGHT.

Stanford's basketers will clash tonight at Palo Alto with the Washington State five in what should be a fast game. The second game will be played tomorrow night with the Cardinals, concluding the tour of the Northwesterners.

MARRIED LIFE

NORTON GETS HIS SHOW WEDNESDAY

Oportunity for Revenge Given Husky From the Oil Country.

Al Norton, who has been training assiduously since Thanksgiving day for a return match with Willie Meehan, will get his opportunity Wednesday evening. Broadway fans are wondering whether Norton will be able to do any good for himself. Norton's most impressive showing was made against Soldier Elder when he stowed the big army man away in two rounds. Against Meehan, Elder was never in distress and in the last round he shot in some stiff lefts that slowed Willie up perceptibly.

Norton undoubtedly possesses a right hand punch that will flatten Meehan if it connects solidly, and Meehan's business Wednesday evening will be to see to it that his jaw is well protected at all times. In their last meeting at Emeryville at Thanksgiving day, Norton looked like an awful boob. Meehan toyed with the big fellow and so humiliated Norton that he has been praying for vengeance ever since.

Norton learned on Thanksgiving day that he has really little to fear from Meehan's wild swings, for Willie hits with the inside of his fist instead of his knuckles and can not be taught otherwise. Norton will now step in, take what Meehan has to offer and try to shoot over the old haymaker.

Walter Schmidt Is Investing in Cows

MODESTO, Feb. 5.— Walter Schmidt, catcher for the Pittsburg Nationals, added to his already fine Holstein herd this week by the purchase of five registered dairy cows at a cost of $4000. Four are cows with records and long pedigrees and the fifth as a yearling heifer, which was selected by Schmidt's little daughter for her very own. Schmidt now has one of the best dairy herds in this section and after another year at baseball expects to retire and devote his entire attention to his herd. He leaves in the next two weeks to join the Pittsburg spring training camp in the South.

WHAT IS RHEUMATISM? WHY SUFFER FROM IT?

Sufferers Should Realize That It Is a Blood Infection and Can Be Permanently Relieved. Don't Suffer This Winter.

Rheumatism means that the blood has become saturated with uric acid poison.

It does not require medical advice to know that good health is absolutely dependent upon pure blood. When the muscles and joints become sore and drawn with rheumatism, it is not a wise thing to take a little salve and by rubbing it on the sore spot, expect to get rid of your rheumatics. You must go deeper than that, down deep into the blood where the poison lurks and which is not effected by salves and ointments. It is important that you rid yourself of this terrible disease before it goes too far. S. S. S. is the blood purifier that has stood the test of time, having been in constant use for more than fifty years. It will do for you what it has done for thousands of others, drive the rheumatic poisons out of your blood, making it pure and strong and enabling it to make you well. S. S. S. is guaranteed purely vegetable, it will do the work and not harm the most delicate stomach.

SAILOR NEWKIRK WINNER AGAIN

Oak Recruit Holds Maxwells to Three Hits, Pitching for Alameda.

Before one of the largest crowds that ever watched a ball game at Lincoln park the Alameda team humbled the Maxwells in a fast game, 2 to 1. Sailor Newkirk twirled a great game for the Isle City team, allowing but three hits, one of them a swinging bunt in front of the plate, by Smale.

Alameda scored their first run at the start when Fleiger beat out a hit and Hollywood's timely hit over Gay's head scored him from third. Maxwell's tied the score in the second on Smale's scratch hit and an error by J. Mackie of Goodwin's grounder.

Hollywood walked in the fourth and crossed the plate with the winning tally when Gay at third let the ball get away from him and it rolled into the crowd.

Before the game, both teams marched to the flag pole where the Mid-winter pennant that was won by Alameda was hoisted to the top. The Alameda players then lined up in front of the grandstand where Manager Krumb was presented with a silver cup offered by the Maxwell Hardware Co. The A. G. Spaulding watch fobs and new bats, the gift of Francis Woodward, manager of the Great Western Power team were distributed to each player. Manager Krumb thanked the people for their good support and promised to bring another flag to Alameda next season. Score:

COAST LEAGUERS MEET TOMORROW

Maier Matter Will Be Allowed to Die a Natural Death.

By "BILLY FITZ"

The Coast League directors will meet in San Francisco tomorrow afternoon to adopt the 1917 schedule which Whitey McCredie has drafted according to agreement.

Indications point to it being a harmless sort of a gathering after all, for the Maier "scandal" has blown over and there is no likelihood of the magnates making the mistake of stirring the mess up again. President Baum took the diplomatic course by inviting Maier to appear before the board and prefer his charges, well knowing that the Southern brewer would as soon face an epidemic of smallpox as to associate with his former confreres.

There are a few matters coming up for discussion, one of which is the "foul-buster ruling," which the National Commission has declared is non-enforceable. The Coast League managers will probably figure out some way of getting around the Nash Commish and still keeping to the spirit of Cal Ewing's play which really is nothing more than a clever idea for keeping down expenses. Even McCredie will be in favor of that.

The Players' Fraternity and the prospective strike may be considered though it appears now that Davy Fultz is a dead issue. He is never mentioned any more unless it is by someone who wants to take a crack at him.

Frank Chance will represent the Angel club at the meeting for Prexy Powers will not be able to get back from Chicago in time. Tom Darmody and George Stovall will look after the affairs of the Tiger club at the confab and it will be the first meeting that Thomas J. attends as owner of the Tigers.

From the present dope the pow-wow will be quiet and it will be just a nice little reunion of the league bosses.

Cardinal Japanese Get Honorable Licking

Stanford's honorable Japanese rugby team was rudely tumbled in the mud yesterday by the Celestial football players of the University of California. The game was played at St. Ignatius field, San Francisco, and the score was 8 to 0 in favor of Captain Kai Kee and his Chinese team mates from the Berkeley campus.

Spectators who saw the exhibition said that diplomatic relations were severed at the first wristle, and that the game broke California's prizefight law into sixty-nine pieces. Kai Kee and Oscar Lee did all the scoring. The lineups:

Stanford Japanese—Yeto, Kawahara, Fukomoto, Takayama, Umuru, Nakabayachi, Eyami, forwards; Huisana, half; Satuma, first five; Mayeda, second five; Takada, center; Toda, wing; Uchuzoco, wing; Numa, fullback.

His Confessions

CHAPTER XIII

The Medicine Men of my own home place got busy with me. I had broken the faith. I had dared to expose the mysteries of the craft. I had talked out of school. I had cut prices and I had advertised, and I was so "unethical" some of the faithful thought the best thing was to cut off my head and sprinkle chloride of lime on my unholy carcass.

When it was pointed out to the "ethical" gentry in the town where I dared to practice dentistry in my own sweet way that I was distinctly "non-ethical," the Dental Society in the burg passed one of those over-night laws of theirs aimed to put just such individuals as me out of business.

The new law was to the effect that every dentist practicing in that Province would have to pay $2 every year. Failure to pay this tax entailed a fine of $20 a day for every day until that fee was paid. Some legislation.

The object of this law was to get me.

It did.

I had been raised in a small town and I was not familiar with either legal or professional ropes. Being "unethical" I was naturally out of touch with the other members of my profession, the kind brethren who would rather see me starve ethically than eat unethically. So I knew nothing about the passage of this law. These benevolent gentlemen (members of the great profession of Medicine Men and Rain-Makers) neglected to tell me about the new rule, and the first thing I knew about it was when I was arrested.

That was all the "ethical" fellows wanted. They saw to it that I was fined $200; that I was written up under scare-heads as a dangerous "fakir," and that I was driven out of the place where I was born and where I had hoped to reside and establish myself.

That, twenty-four years ago, was my first taste of the revenge of the Medicine Man. It was a dose of medicine handed me by the benevolent gentlemen who have controlled and hope to control the practice of dentistry in all the communities in America.

But it wasn't the last dose of that medicine I was to swallow. Oh, no.

EDUCATION URGED AS VICE CURE

Early Training of Young, Says Rev. H. A. Van Winkle, Is a Better Preventive of Crime Than Any Barrier of Laws

Pastor Declares That Parents Should No Longer Depend on Old Idea Ignorance Is Bliss—Church Inaction Is Scored

That the cure for vicious moral conditions in our great modern cities lies in the early education of the young and not in any barrier of laws was the statement made last evening by the Rev. H. A. Van Winkle, pastor of the First Christian church, in a sermon on "The Vice Evil." Maintaining that we are attacking the problem from the wrong end, he pointed out the proper manner in which to eradicate immorality from the nation is to cause a dislike for wrong doing to arise naturally in the natures of the people.

"The inaction of the Church of Jesus Christ is a disgrace," he said. "Fully eighty per cent of the children and young people of these cities are not in touch with any Sunday school. In addition to the work that has been started across the bay for better law enforcement, let us aid the police by arousing the churches into action, and in a mighty wave of co-operative and aggressive action sweep out into the highways and gather up the uncared for children and young people whose hearts are calling out for love, sympathy and instruction, and prevent them from falling into these pits of shame.

"Parents should no longer depend upon the old silly idea that ignorance is bliss. It is a miserable failure. Our young people should choose a righteous life, not because they are ignorant of sin, but rather because they are too intelligent and well informed to do anything else. Newspapers, theaters, chambers of commerce, educational institutions, churches and parents, each and all have an obligation and should become an aggressive part of the great 'moral squad.'

SOMETHING LACKING.

"There is something lacking in the lives of both men and women, as a rule, when they become guilty of the immoral life. Twelve per cent at least of the children born in America are unfortunate from the standpoint of parentage—that wholesome foundation is omitted from their lives. If any action is ever taken in this country regarding the question of birth control it should be altogether from the standpoint of quality, not quantity.

"What we need is not fewer but more efficient children. Not only has every child the right to be well born but he has a right to be born into an environment which will furnish him the necessary aid in building a strong character. Unfortunately there is omitted from the lives of the majority of our youth the proper mental and spiritual food during the age that their lives are absorbing everything with which they come in contact. When we find multitudes of our youth morally weak and ill and mentally despondent, it is time for us to cease quibbling altogether with effects and locate the cause.

SIN A DISEASE.

"Sin is a disease, not of the body but of the mind, however its effects may appear in the body. Vice is an effect of corrupted mind, therefore a cure must be applied to the mind rather than to the body. All evil acting and speaking are preceded by evil thinking, for "as a Man thinketh in his heart so is He." When our citizens become physically ill we provide them with hospitals and the best means for recovery, but when they become ill morally we have nothing provided for them but jails and penitentiary and proceed to club them from our presence to die of disgrace without a friend."

Receipts since January 1 amounted to $64033.46, giving a total of $1,901,177.61. Disbursements since January 1 were $451,548.71, leaving a balance on hand of $1,449,628.90. There was a balance in old tax sales January 1 of $717.19. With no receipts or disbursements of old tax sales since then the balance remains unchanged at the end of January.

Informers' Refuge Is County Bastile

Appealing to Sheriff Frank Barnet, Edward Percy and Opal Montgomery, informers for the federal authorities, who have been active against drug peddlers and physicians who have sold the cocaine and opium users their supply, are locked in the county jail immune from threatened attack.

Information which will be used in the trial of Dr. G. E. Kleeman has been secured by the pair, and it is alleged that a group of San Francisco victims have sworn to do them bodily harm for the part they played in the arrest of the physician.

U. S. Soldiers Hurt in Grenade Practice

EL PASO, Feb. 5.—The first practice in European trench warfare ever held here resulted in First Sergeant Tneaslack of Company I, Twenty-third United States Infantry, losing a hand from the explosion of a hand grenade and Private W. Albright of Company M, the same regiment, receiving injuries from flying metal that may result in death. Tneaslack accidentally struck the back of the trench with the bomb.

Local Production of Mazdas Large

Progress of the electrical business in Oakland was the subject of a talk by Thomas L. Gordon, superintendent of sales of the Edison Mazda plant here, at a meeting of local electrical men in the Key Route Inn Saturday night. He stated that the Oakland factory was turning out 20,000 Mazda lamps every 24 hours. John McKee was chairman of the evening. George Drew, one of the best known electrical men on the Pacific coast, was one of the guests of honor.

NUMBERS WELL PLAYED AT 'POP'

'New World' Symphony Selection Is Most Keenly Appreciated.

By Ray C. B. Brown.

If there are still any hypercritical beings who believe that nothing musically good can come out of Oakland, I wish that they might have been present yesterday at the first of Paul Steindorff's second series of "pop" concerts. There was an audience that filled the theater, and it was one that manifested from the first its knowledge that it was being given music of the best. There was nothing apathetic about the concert on the part of performers or auditors; rather was there an atmosphere of camaraderie that linked all in common enjoyment.

The gem of the program was, naturally, the Largo from Dvorak's fifth symphony. This composition "from the New World" always has its particular appeal to Americans because of its utilization of the harmonic and melodic elements of negro songs of the South, aside from its intrinsic value as pure music. It was played with sympathy and insight.

Meyerbeer's "Les Huguenots" is so seldom heard these days that the "Dedication and Benediction" from this overlong opera sounded almost new. It brought to my mind the dictum, announced by one whose name I have forgotten, that composers should always write in their third manner. For if Meyerbeer had retained his family name of Jakob Beer and written persistently in his first manner, we should have little reason to remember him.

A diversified and well played program gave such contrasts as the Brazilian overture by Gomez, the "Thousand and One Nights" waltz of Johann Strauss and the ballet suite from "Faust."

Madame Florence Drake LeRoy gave a dramatic rendition of the mad scene from "Lucia" and then displayed her versatility by a fluent caroling of Luigi Arditi's familiar "Il Bacio." Paul Galazzi sang the prologue to "I Pagliacci" in effective manner. Both singers were recalled for encores and then recalled again.

The art of Edwin Lemare as organist and composer was enjoyed Saturday evening by an audience complimentary in size and appreciation at the first recital which the distinguished visitor has given in Oakland during his sojourn here. A program that sampled many styles and displayed the resources of the premier solo instrument presented several numbers that need but sufficient repetition to become "popular."

One of these was the delicate "Canzona della Sera" of d'Evry, a suave cantabile over a barcarolle-like accompaniment with an atmosphere of vanished sunsets. Another was Lemare's "Chant du Bonheur," written in the same melodic manner as his "Andantino"—a manner suggestive of musings more melancholy than merry. The "Elfentanz" of Bernard Johnson also contains elements of democratic appeal in its prankish measures.

From the technical point of view, Lemare's "Scherzo Fugue" was his best offering from his own compositions. This is an excellent piece of contrapuntal writing, challenging comparison with the standard fugues of the organ masters, and saved from any hint of academic dryness by its headlong gayety of theme. There was no Bach fugue on the program, the incomparable Johann Sebastian being represented by his sturdy "Toccata in F Major."

Mendelssohn's rarely heard "Sonata No. 1" made one appreciate more than ever the Mendelssohn of orchestral utterance. There is a pedantic precision in this work, save in the fourth movement with its racing passages for pedal organ, that savors more of pedagogic formulae than of spontaneous composition. Mozart's "Fantasia in F Minor" closed the program. The story that it was written for a mechanical organ attached to a clock sounds apocryphal to me—no automatic contrivance of his day could have made anything but chaos of its free passages.

OUTLAW WIRELESS WILL BE CURBED

University Radio Expects to Aid U. S. Clear Air of Competitors.

Scouting for unlicensed radio stations which might seriously interfere with the business of the federal government in case of war and which in times of peace have given the government officials as well as licensed radio operators in other fields a great deal of annoyance, will be undertaken by the University of California Radio Club under the direction of E. W. Stone, government radio inspector, this week.

It is hoped that the bay section may be rid of unlicensed wireless stations within the next few days so that the unruly amateurs will not interfere with the experimental wireless relay which will take place on February 22. On that date a message from the mayor of New York to the mayor of San Francisco will be relayed across the United States by experimental stations and will be participated in by the University Radio Club.

Casey and Mrs. H. G. White and Miss Maud Waters.

"The Chicago Diet Squad" succeeded in cutting down the average cost of each meal to 8-⅓ cents in spite of the high cost of foods. And the squad waxed fat and hearty. The most expensive foods are generally the least nutritious. Two Shredded Wheat Biscuits with milk make a perfect meal, containing all the nutriment any man or woman needs for a half day's work and at a cost of four or five cents. Shredded Wheat has all the body-building material in the whole wheat grain in a digestible form. For breakfast with milk or cream, or for any meal with fruits. Made in Niagara Falls, N.Y.

THE WAY TO HELP MEXICO.

While the direct and most effective way of restoring order in Mexico and of creating conditions for the advancement of the people of that country has been, for the present at least, dropped from consideration, the duty of intelligent, progressive America to maintain a lively interest in the well-being of the Mexican people, as distinguished from the bandit-politicians, is in no wise lessened. The difficulties in the way of quick accomplishment are greater than they might have been. But that should serve only to stimulate philanthropic endeavor.

One suggestion for a way of bringing help to Mexico has been offered by a committee for the study of educational problems in Mexico, under the chairmanship of President Dabney of the University of Cincinnati. It includes among its members the heads of Johns Hopkins, of the University of Chicago, of Oberlin, and Mr. John Bassett Moore, Dr. David Starr Jordan and others. The committee has issued an appeal for the establishment of an independent college in Mexico, a model for which Chairman Dabney cites Robert College at Constantinople.

If such a college would be a school or headquarters from which instruction in how to be civilized might be secured it is a capital idea. Civilization of the Mexican people has been sadly neglected. Under the Diaz regime, which was noted for its material prosperity and ostentatious display of wealth, practical training of the people in how to achieve greater comfort was ignored.

Realization of the duty and knowledge of means to protect human life must be the basis for real reform in Mexico. Such reform must have a direct bearing on healthfulness, and include establishments to heal, to cleanse, to disinfect, to take prophylactic measures. Then there should be engineering works, laws and regulations put in force by a technical personnel and administered by a competent police force. If a modern sanitary system can be perfected for Mexico the sum of Mexican civilization will be tremendously increased.

Mr. Alberto J. Pani, member of the late Mexican-American Joint Commission, has indicated the task before those who want to reform Mexico by pacific means, in the following:

"The true problem of Mexico consists in hygienizing the population physically and morally, and to endeavor to find, through all means available, an improvement in the precarious economical situation of our proletariat. The part of the solution of the problem which corresponds to the Department of Education or to the municipalities must be realized, establishing and maintaining the greatest possible number of schools, to do which their cost must be reduced by means of a rational simplification of organization and of school programs. This must be done without losing sight of the fact that its preferential orientations should be marked by the character, essentially technological, of the teaching, to cooperate with all the other organs of the government in the work of economical improvement of the masses and the diffusion of the elemental principles of hygiene as an efficient protection for the race. And as, finally, the medium does constitute an educational factor more powerful than the schools themselves, the country must, before and above all, organize its public administration upon a basis of absolute morality."

In Mexico City, where the greatest sum of culture and material progress is to be found, the annual death rate is 45 per 1000. If the people can be shown how to reduce this rate to about 15 per 1000 there will still be time to establish institutions for higher education. Chairman Dabney's committee should first tackle the problem of physical and moral hygienizing of Mexico.

COST OF THE CITY GOVERNMENT.

Government for the city of Oakland costs a sum equivalent to $10.03 cents for each member of the population. This is a moderate per capita expense. In San Francisco the per capita cost is $14.26, in Portland $10.95, in Seattle $13.59, in Los Angeles $15.10. The city auditor has figured the cost on the basis of the estimated population given out by the federal census bureau, obviously because the comparative figures for other cities were based on the same data. The actual population of Oakland being greater by over fifteen percent than the federal estimate, the per capita cost is of course lower than above given, but the comparison with other coast cities would probably be unchanged by adopting the actual population as a divisor of the total expense.

The cheering message which these figures convey is that the cost of the local government is less than in the other Pacific Coast cities of the same or larger class. It is alike gratifying to the residents of the city and encouraging to outsiders who may contemplate removing hither.

NATIONAL GUARD IN DANGER.

If Oakland is to play its part in placing the California national guard on the basis prescribed by the federal government she must stir herself to the performance of the duty of recruiting the local companies to their required strength. At present the local companies are regretably short of men and unless more interest is displayed in recruiting they will be short on March 31st next, when all organizations not up to the required strength will be mustered out.

Under the plan of federalization of the national guard adopted by the general staff of the army, in accordance with the army reorganization act passed at the last session of Congress, California must furnish three regiments of infantry and one battalion of artillery. Oakland is required to furnish two companies of infantry of three officers and sixty-five men each and one battery of artillery of five officers and 126 men.

Alameda County would like to keep its national guard organizations. It has always been proud of them and always has been permitted to rejoice at the honorable performance of duty whenever they were called to active service. Surely the people hope that the companies will meet the conditions prescribed by the war department and help California maintain its place as a part of the second line of national defense.

It is plainly up to the militia officers and the men interested in the militia system to do all they can to keep the organizations intact. Indeed, the major part of the burden is on the advocates of the federalization scheme. The national militia association, of which both officers and men are members, sent a lobby to Washington in December, 1915, to defeat the continental army plan advocated by Secretary of War Garrison and to urge the adoption of the federalization project. This lobby succeeded in accomplishing its object. It is now up to the national guard to make good on the first requirement—to produce the necessary organized strength. If it fail to do this it will have failed as a tactical and effective military unit of the defense system.

ILLEGAL COURTS!

A San Francisco judge has declared the recently organized night court illegal and all the proceedings of the court are as a consequence nullified. It was conducted in violation of the provision of the city charter forbidding operation of the court after 5 o'clock on week days and 12 o'clock on Saturday.

While our transbay neighbor is starting a school for detectives it might as well send its judges and lawyers into training. If knowledge of charter provisions and city ordinances is wanting to such an extent as to lead a judge to participate in formal and "judicial" violation of municipal law a condition exists which requires immediate remedy.

An episode which otherwise would contribute to the gaiety of the community becomes serious at the thought of the many offenders the illegal court has turned loose and of the measure of ignorance and error that may have entered into the conviction and punishment of the innocent.

The decision to purchase "The Hights" for park purposes will be generally commended. The Hights, it will be understood at once, is the homestead of Joaquin Miller, situated well up toward the crest of the Contra Costa Hills. When the poet settled there, thirty years ago, the region was not popularly recognized as to its vantage for observation and its natural beauty. It may be said that the poet sang it into fame. It not only has natural attractions as a park, but it will become an objective for tourists and others who pay tribute to genius. The unpretentious house in which he spent his last days and such other reminders of the poet as may be retained will become objects of great interest, as the homes of other famous personages so generally become. Joaquin Miller's fame will enhance as time passes, for he was one of the men who gave to California a distinct literary setting.

AMATEURISM IN SPORT.

(New York Sun.)

If the Western Golf Association carries out its reported intention and adopts its own definition of an amateur golfer some readily foreseen embarrassments may arise, but its action will not be without precedent in principle. We do not know of any body empowered universally to enforce a definition of amateurism in sports. It was not so very long ago that a tradesman was ineligible to compete as an amateur in certain sports in England. The son of a fashionable London tailor whose father had a summer home on the upper Thames, where the youngster acquired great skill in watermanship, was not allowed to compete in the many amateur events on the river in the neighborhood of his home, but he was taken along to France as a member of a British eight to row against a French crew. He was considered a professional on the Thames, an amateur on the Seine.

After winning the famous Diamond Sculls event at Henley in 1897 Ten Eyck, an American, was not permitted to compete in the event the following year. He was objected to by the managers because his father was a professional oarsman.

Authoritative bodies can adopt any definition of amateurism they like and enforce it within recognized jurisdiction. It was said in this country after the Ten Eyck incident that those in charge of the Henley events declared any foreigner who had proved himself able to win any Henley event not an amateur. Assuming that they had agreed upon so whimsical a definition, there was no appeal so far as entrance at Henley was concerned.

The Western Golf Association may so liberalize its definition of amateurism in golf as to admit to Western events individuals barred from national events, and there can be no appeal. The Western body has final authority within a recognized jurisdiction, but some entrants to its events may be barred in National Association events. Even in such a case the amateurism of such players as to their records in Western events cannot be successfully assailed.

Amateurism is, within its jurisdiction, what any authorized governing body says it is.

NOTES and COMMENT

Professor Seward of Stanford says that "wit is following an invitation to take a mental romp." The definition itself has some qualification to be cited as an example.

Ungallant item from the New York Telegraph: "With a woman mayor, woman recorder, woman treasurer, and four women composing the city council, there will be nothing to interfere with the perfectly ideal government of Umatilla, Oregon, unless some miscreant turns loose a mouse in the city hall."

* * *

The editor of the St. Helena Star journeyed to Sacramento and held converse with one "close up in administration circles." "We inquired as to the sort of man Lieutenant-Governor Stephens is and what his chances will be for election as governor in 1918. We were told that soon-to-be Governor Stephens is a very kindly, likeable man, and that his chances of election next year will depend upon his ability to hold the machine together.

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

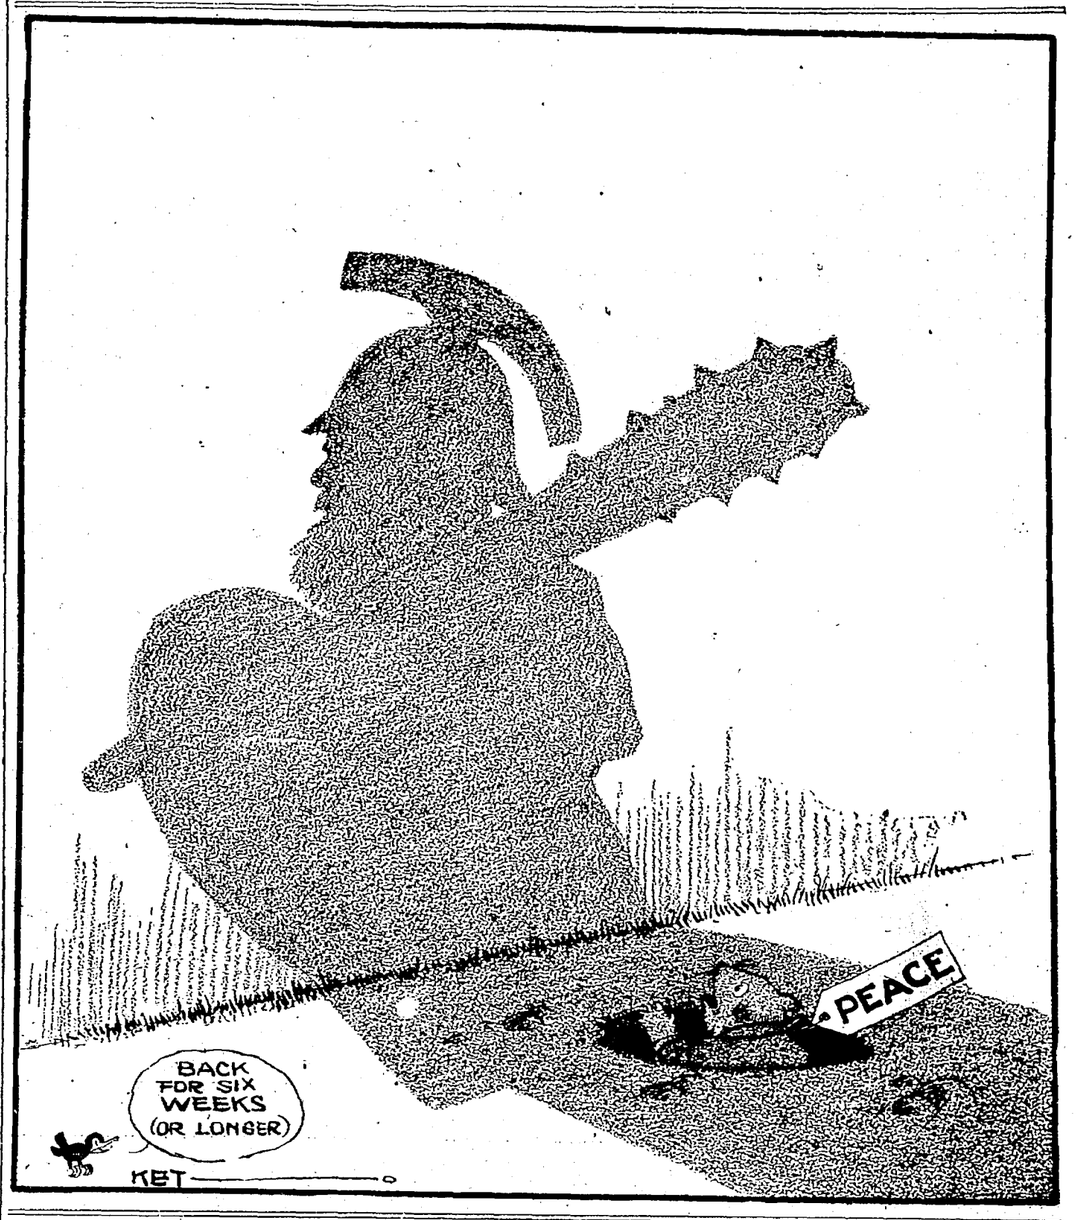

There are a number of scraps on tap for the second session that will cause some of the administration friends to wish that Governor Johnson would remain on the job because they know that he can tell the warring factions "where to head in," but it is taken as a foregone conclusion that before the month expires Johnson will be on his way to Washington. Stephens is going to play the same sort of a game that has been the practice in recent years, namely, that of permitting objectionable legislation to sleep quietly in committee rather than force an open fight that might prove embarrassing.—Corr. Tracy Press.

The members of the Legislature must feel very much complimented by a recent cartoon in the Sacramento Bee, official organ of the State administration, in which Governor Johnson is pictured as leaving for the East, but being beseeched by a female figure personifying California, who exclaims: "Wait until they have gone, Hiram!"—Humboldt Standard.

The fine young Stanford chap who sees that women students must be shut out of Stanford is not going to have his dream come true without protest. His contention is that the greater economic good of the university demands the shutting out of women, because most of them marry, and those who don't, use the educational advantages of Stanford only to become school teachers. Well, if there's any greater need in the country than well-rounded, broadly-trained school teachers, nobody knows what it is.—Stockton Mail.

Federal taxes, State taxes, county taxes, municipal taxes, special district taxes, unearned increment taxes, and surplus profit taxes—they are piling up in California until the producer is carrying a burden that staggers modern society. City and county officials are protesting against the encroachments of State tax gatherers; State officials are protesting against the invasion of federal tax gatherers. All these bureaucrats are fighting like ravening wolves over the income of the plain citizen who had nothing to do but work, who has been squeezed by the tax gatherers until he has not enough breath left to make audible protest.—Los Angeles Times.

THE GROUNDHOG SAW A SHADOW!

THE STARS SHINE ON.

I have scanned the sky for a clew
To the fury of hate
Which rends the Old World, riddles the New;
But, alas, of late
Heaven is dumb, a vault of stone:
The stars shine on, serene as ever they shone.

I have turned to the sun for light,
But a thickening smoke
Smothers his gold, which seemed all bright,
With a lurid cloak.
Must the gloom continue? Can nothing atone?
The stars shine on, serene as ever they shone.

I have plead with the moon for a ray—
Soft sphere of dreams;
But her lovely face, now drawn and gray,
No longer beams:
Her silver is tarnished, her magic flown,
The stars shine on, serene as ever they shone.

So I call to the stars: "O stars
Of constant flame,
Fling us a sop for the fate that scars
Our earth with shame!"
Fate? Not fate, but folly alone;
The stars shine on, serene as ever they shone.

"Meat of your marrow the flaw
And as old as time,
But a bane that festers now that your law
Is love sublime:
Begrudging greed, the bone of your bone!"
The stars shine on, serene as ever they shone.

"WORLD PEACE" PROGRAMS.

"How about world peace?" says the pacifist. "Ah, yes, world peace, beautiful ideal, very. It will come some day, 500 years from now, when China is saturated with money of her own. Kindly pass the cigars." But if one were to ask Professor Seligman not what he thinks of permanent peace, but whether he considers it inevitable for China to be at war with somebody in the next fifty years, he would ponder the question a little more seriously.

For the difference between permanent peace or the elimination of war, as usually understood, and the prolongation of peace as I understand it, is this: world peace means fighting as much as ever till about the year 2345 and then heaven forevermore. Whereas the prolongation of peace means that from now till the year 2345 and after there shall be six wars or a dozen wars only instead of the fifty wars indicated by our present ratio. I am ready to admit that war is as inevitable as death and taxes. Men will always pay taxes. The question is how high are taxes to be. Men will always die. The question is how soon. Men will always fight. The question is how often.

When the anti-militarist speaks of a United States of Europe that is to arise after the war, he is accused of indulging in millennial dreams, and the only rejoinder he can think of is to demonstrate the feasibility of the millennium. It seems to occur to neither party that the establishment of the United States of Europe does not guarantee the millennium. The United States of America had a civil war which lasted four years and this in spite of the fact that the states of the Union were not the European states of today. The colonies had never engaged in war with each other. They had behind them almost none of the complex of forces and traditions that makes for international war. Eighty-five years after they had become a nation they went to war with each other. And the United Counties of England have known civil war, and the United Provinces of France and the United Cantons of Switzerland. If it is the absolute prevention of war you are striving for, the Union of Europe is no guarantee.—Simeon Strunksy in the January Yale Review.

THE GENTLE ART OF SKIPPING

Not everybody will accept as the best that could be made the list of books which Colonel Roosevelt recommended to a busy man who wanted a tabloid library of poetry, fiction, travel and adventure. Literary tastes differ too widely and the field of selection is too vast to make it probable that any such list will ever find universal acceptance.

But something like unanimity of opinion will applaud the colonel's advice to his correspondent to skip most of the parts about the heroines in both Scott and Fenimore Cooper. He might have gone even further than that. He might have laid it down as sound literary law that a good skipper, a judicious, discriminating, intuitive skipper, whether he do his skipping in Scott or Cooper or Thackeray or Dickens, or whether he skips parts about heroines or the descriptive parts that have been called "powerful"—that skipper is more likely to be appreciative of his author and more likely to derive pleasure and profit from his reading than the undeviating plodder who takes hurdle and ditch as they come and makes no intelligent effort to make his journey easy and pleasant.

Skipping, indeed, is a necessity and a duty if we are to keep up with the time card on our literary travels. In this busy age the man who should attempt to read all of Scott would be committing a very serious offense against the principles of conservation. The same indictment does not run so heavily against the thoroughgoing reader of Dickens, but there are reasons as good why he should let certain pages of that author stick together as he turns them. "Don Quixote" will stand a lot of skipping, and so will "Les Miserables." Experienced skippers will also find an excellent field of endeavor in the "Cloister and the Hearth." In none of these books, nor in "Westward Ho," in which there are a lot of little by excursions arranged by Kingsley to lure the reader off the main road, does the story suffer by the proper exercise of the skipper's art. "The Cloister and the Hearth," for instance, is really a series of episodes and can be read backward almost as well as forward. "Westward Ho" is full of homilies which the author is continually begging the reader to stop and listen to, but we are really paying a deserved compliment to the story itself when we feel compelled to say to him that we would rather hurry on and see what happens next. Some of us have had to wave Thackeray aside in the same way, and some of us know how little inclined he is to stay aside when waved, or even pushed. Dickens is less an offender in this particular—that is, in the particular of buttonholing the reader—but he is just as skipable on other grounds. When he invites us to come with him and have a good cry—as at Little Nell's bedside—is a time when most of us like to make the leaves fly until we come to Dick Swiveller and dry land again.—Kansas City Star.

MASSACHUSETTS MEN ON GUARD

It is astonishing how the whole country looks to Massachusetts for men to keep the national capital from running entirely wild. Sherman L. Whipple of Boston takes the spotlight position in the solution at Washington and in Wall street of the leak from the White House on the peace note which Thomas W. Lawson advertised. Senator Lodge opened the fight to prevent the confirmation of Dr. Grayson as a rear-admiral after appointment by President Wilson in defiance of military practice, and Senator Weeks prepares to lead the fight from the standpoint of a graduate of the naval academy. Thus does Massachusetts stand as the corrective portion of the United States in the two most important "errors" of the Democratic administration on the movies now. But it is not the first time that Massachusetts has been called upon to preform as the balance wheel in the machinery of this republic.—Worcester Telegram.

KEEPING HER MEMORY GREEN.

The greenness of Hetty Green's memory promises to be preserved for some time by a legal contest over whether she was a resident of New York or of Vermont and hence whether her estate is liable to a tax of $4,000,000 or of only $1250. At any rate the outcome is likely to be a reduction of the pressure of the high cost of living upon some eminent members of the bar.—Springfield Republican.

GRAND JURY FOREMAN IS THREATENED

Life of Jean Poirier Said to Be at Stake in Letter Which He Received From Mysterious Person Now Sought by Hynes

Poolroom Owner Appears Before Inquisitorial Body to Relate Manner in Which He Was Relieved of His License

Threats against the life of Foreman Jean P. Poirier of the Alameda county grand jury have been received by the Berkeley capitalist. When the county body assembled this morning to continue probing conditions in Oakland the members were told of the threats. Poirier declined to make public the letter he had received, but admitted that it was unsigned. District Attorney Hynes has received a number of anonymous letters of many kinds, but none which has contained a threat.

Poirier, at the grand jury rooms this morning, declared that he was able to stand any intimidation and that the work of the jury, so far as he was concerned, would be pressed to a conclusion.

"My shoulders are broad enough to carry the burden of any such threats," said he. "We are going to continue the probe to the end, fearlessly."

MANY LETTERS COME.

For some weeks past a mass of letters have been received daily touching phases of the grand jury work. Most of these letters are turned over to Deputy District Attorney Myron Harris and County Detective George Helms. As most of them are unsigned or signed with a fictitious name, they have not been regarded seriously.

The letter to the foreman, however, has spurred the attaches of the office to trace the communication back to its source. The threat does not indicate what species of menace threatens the life of the Berkeley man.

CAPTAIN BROWN HEARD.

For a short time this morning the witness stand was occupied by Captain of Police Thorwald Brown, president of the Co-operative Oil Lands Subdivison Company. It has developed that Corporal Peter Van Houtte of the "moral squad" is not a stockholder in the concern, as declared by Edith Hammond, the bath proprietress, and it is improbable that Van Houtte will in any way be implicated in the grand jury report. Chief of Police Walter J. Petersen has expressed the utmost confidence in Van Houtte's methods of securing evidence in the night life.

John Soares, of 1706 Eighth street, owner of a poolroom at 1712 Seventh street, whose license was taken up by the police, was called to the witness stand to detail the conditions under which he had lost his permit.

Much activity is evidenced in the district attorney's office today securing witnesses who will appear before the week is done. Indictments appear to be a foregone conclusion, but the lid has been clamped on the hearings hard and none of the jury or members of Hynes' office will discuss the new phase of activity.

The concluding testimony in the oil stock sales of policemen will be taken today. Captain Thorwald Brown is the last witness on this detail. As president of the corporation, he is telling of the promotion of the sale of stock to women of the night life. Corporal E. J. Conroy, who first brought the plan to Brown, was the most active stock seller. Most of the stock he sold, it is alleged, was his own stock.

30 GERMANS IN COUNTY APPLY FOR CITIZENSHIP

Fear Internment Camp; Would Forswear Allegiance to Kaiser

Thirty German naturalization applications were filed with County Clerk George E. Gross today before noon, the greatest number in the history of the county during one day. All the applicants for citizenship admit that the effort is to avoid being interned as war prisoners should the United States and Germany be involved in the present crisis.

As applicants for citizenship these Germans would escape detention in a prison camp, having foresworn allegiance to the Kaiser. Deputy Clerk James Holland received a number of telephone calls at his home yesterday from German-Americans asking advice in the event of war.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5.—"Gyp the Blood," the gangster who figured so prominently in the case of Lieutenant Becker of New York, was ushered into the trial of Thomas Mooney today when District Attorney Fickert accused Attorney Burke Cockran of adopting the same tactics here that he had in the East. Cockran was charging that a frame up on the part of the prosecution was responsible for the arrest of Mooney, Weinberg, Billings, Nolan and Mrs. Mooney.

"That is the same thing you argued for 'Gyp the Blood' in the Becker case," interposed Fickert. "You made the same charges in New York against the public officials."

"This is an instance of their tactics," rejoined Cockran.

Israel Weinberg was on the stand at the outset to deny complicity in the bomb explosion and declared that Assistant District Attorney Cunha had said to him on his arrest, "If you are one of the wise guys, the rope for you," and of one of the others in the arresting party adding "we will have some fun seeing you hanged."

It was when Attorney J. G. Reisner was testifying as to his inability to see Weinberg after his arrest that the tilt between Cockran and Fickert occurred.

U. S. FORCES BACK FROM EXPEDITION

Pershing Column Crosses the Border to American Soil; Columbus Gives a Rousing Welcome to Returning Army

Veterans of Dash Over U. S. Boundary to Be Reviewed Before First Camp Leave in America Is Granted Men

By Webb Miller,
United Press Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS N. M., Feb. 5.—The American punitive expedition, sent into Mexico last spring to capture Villa "Dead or Alive," marched back upon the American soil today with the main object of its invasion of Mexico unaccomplished.

Riding at the head of the American column, General Pershing, commanding the expedition, led his men across the international line at 8:30 a. m. today. As the front ranks of the line winding across the desert set foot upon the soil of their home land the men broke into wild cheering and shouting. The column as it covered the final stretch of the hike to the border was nearly fifteen miles in length.

Before marching across the border the American flag was dipped in salute. The entire expedition formed in a hollow square at Palomas lakes, five miles from the border on the Mexican side. With 12,000 men standing at attention the bands played the "Star Spangled Banner," while the Stars and Stripes fluttered to the ground. Then the column formed and pushed toward the international line.

For more than four hours the bronzed, bearded veterans of the Mexican campaign swung through rising dust clouds, the men laughing and cheering at every step.

With his headquarters company, General Pershing crossed the line first. The infantry regiments followed the commander and then the cavalry and artillery.

The withdrawal of the American expedition from Mexico was completed.

EL PASO, Feb. 5.—Elation over the break between the United States and Germany is expressed by Villista and Carranzista officers and sympathizers here and in northern Mexico.

The Villistas declare the United States now will be compelled to cease interference in Mexican affairs and permit Villa to proceed with his campaign against Carranza unhindered. They intimate that Villa is not averse to receiving overtures from Germany to embarrass and harass the United States if war develops.

German agents are closely watching the Mexican situation, particularly with reference to the activities of an organization known as the Society of the Iron Cross, said to be spreading a German propaganda throughout Mexico. The federal agents are watching to see if they align themselves entirely with either faction.

It is expected that General Pershing will review his veterans of the Mexican campaign after crossing, and after a parade of the streets, will give the men their first leave in an American town since last March. Columbus is crowded with visitors who have gathered here to greet the soldiers.

While the refugees arriving at the border presented a pitiable spectacle as a whole, there have been some incidents affording a comic relief.

Four babies born en route were given the surname of officers in command of the refugee escorts.

A Mexican woman rode to the border on a calf which she saddled at El Valle, 175 miles to the south.

Chickens, cows, herds of horses, sheep and even little lambs tied to the axles of wagons have accompanied the civilians fleeing from the wrath of Villa.

WHALING TO LEAVE VERNON.

"Firebrand George," the famous $500 chief of the Vernon Tigers, is said to be framing up a tirade by which Catcher Whaling goes to the American Associations in exchange for a catcher. Whaling hit but .200 last season and drew a fat salary, so Stovall will probably be glad to get rid of him.

Double Vision Lenses Now Made Accurately

After years of untiring study and research work, double vision glasses that are absolutely scientifically correct have been perfected and patented. These wonderful new lenses are called "Caltex" Onepiece Bifocals, and are just making their appearance before the public and optical world. People who require different glasses for reading and distance will find the "Caltex" a great convenience and joy, as two pairs of glasses are really combined in one. The "Caltex" are ground from a single piece of perfect optical glass, and all defects of the old style bifocals have been entirely overcome by this new process of grinding. Ground at the three establishments of the California Optical Co., 1221 Broadway, Oakland; 181 Post street and 2508 Mission St., San Francisco.—Advertisement.

JAPANESE TO BUILD GREAT NAVAL UNITS

Increase National Debt to Strengthen Power on Sea; American Expansion Is Factor in Move for More Ships

Enormous Sum to Be Spent Over Seven-Year Period in Big War Vessels; Ocean Fighters to Be Formidable

BY UNITED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

TOKIO, Feb. 5.—Expansion of the Japanese navy today is considered more important by the government than reduction of the country's national debt. This view was expressed here by Kazuye Shoda, minister of finance.

Shoda's statement came as an explanation and defense of the Terauchi ministry's announcement that beginning with the fiscal year of 1918-19 and continuing until Japan's seven-year naval program is finished, $10,000,000 of the $25,000,000 which the government had set aside for the annual redemption of the national debt will be used in the construction of warships.

This decision means that the recent restoration of the sinking fund to its former figure of $25,000,000 is to be for one year only and is contradictory to the principle by which the Terauchi ministry increased the fund from $15,000,000 to $25,000,000.

The recent peace talk and its demoralization of the Tokio Stock Exchange has just given Japan a taste of what her condition will be after the war.

NEW NAVAL PROGRAM.

Japan's new naval construction program calls for an appropriation of $130,320,895. It is proposed to build three battleships of the superdreadnaught type, two battle cruisers and several light cruisers, destroyers, auxiliary vessels and submarines in the seven fiscal years beginning 1917-18. With the conclusion of this program the Japanese naval authorities will have realized their long cherished ambition of establishing eight battleships and four battle cruisers as the unit of the nation's fleet.

The total appropriation of $130,320,895 will be apportioned as follows:

1917-18...	$7,164,604	1921-22...	$27,570,224
1918-19...	11,596,919	1922-23...	12,466,429
1919-20...	20,869,713	1923-24...	12,497,153
1920-21...	25,655,348

COMPARED TO AMERICA.

Announcement of this program, coming on the heels of the bill which will double the fighting capacity of the American fleet, has created great interest here. This interest has been considerably heightened by the contention of a large section of the Japanese press that the naval expansion of the United States is directed at Japan.

As for Japan's determination to strengthen her sea power, even if her national debt must suffer, there are arguments a-plenty both for those who would justify her move and others who insist it is an aggressive action.

Consider Japan's position in the world, say members of the latter class. She is lord of the Orient. Already equipped with a mighty army and an efficient navy, she enjoys a position of unparalleled security. She is firmly united in alliance with Great Britain, the strongest sea power, and has joined in a close agreement with her near and powerful land neighbor, Russia.

There are many factors in defense of Japan's naval policy. The end of the war will see a readjustment of power all over the world. If the British and German navies come out of the struggle approximately intact Japan will occupy an humble place in the naval heirarchy, made all the more humble by America's great expansion plans.

When the facts are kept in mind, say the peace promoters, no one need be alarmed at the sum voted for Japan's naval armaments.

Mrs. Stogdill Desperate In Providing for Her Baby

MRS. THEODORA ROGERS STOGDILL, whose romance begun in Oakland leads to Los Angeles jail on bad check charge.—Copyright International Film Service.

Former Oakland Teacher Again in Jail on the Charge of Passing Bad Checks

Driven to desperation by the lack of food and clothing for her baby, Mrs. Theodora Stogdill, 1559 Penn street, Los Angeles, is under arrest in the city prison there charged with passing fictitious checks—the same crime for which she was arrested in this city in June of 1915, when she was Miss Theodora Rogers, a pretty teacher in the Utah Street school of that city. Noble K. Stogdill, her husband, is sticking by her faithfully, declaring that her arrest did not alter his love for her.

Mrs. Stogdill, who is 27 years old, first achieved notoriety nearly two years ago when she was charged with having purchased a wedding trousseau and a railroad ticket to Berkeley with money which she obtained in Los Angeles through fictitious checks. She announced at that time that she was engaged to marry Dr. John Lynch of Berkeley. Dr. Lynch, according to his friends, was never betrothed to Miss Rogers, although he had been frequently in her company. He has since married and is practicing medicine in Contra Costa county.

After Miss Rogers' arrest Stogdill told the detectives of the Nick Harris agency that he had been jilted by Miss Rogers, and declared that in retaliation for this he would assist them in bringing the young woman back. He promised to induce her to return and to make good the value of the checks.

When Stogdill reached Berkeley he found that Miss Rogers had revised her opinion of him. She listened to his suit favorably and the two were married. Later they went to Vancouver, B. C., to avoid arrest.

Several weeks ago the detectives ascertained that the couple had returned to Los Angeles and were living at 1559 Penn street. A baby had been born to them. Stogdill, who had been engaged in various occupations, was out of work. In the pinch of circumstances Mrs. Stogdill is said to have turned again to the method she had used before for raising money.

Mrs. Stogdill was a student in Occidental College and Stanford University before she began teaching school. Her father was a missionary in China and her brother conducts a correspondence school in Hong Kong.

LOSE TRAIL OF SALOON MURDERERS

Hotel Oakland Waiter Slain and Companion Is Stretched by Blow of Revolver in Hold-Up of 12th St. Establishment

Third Man Is Fatally Injured When Struck by Automobile Driven by Pair on Their Way to Summon Police Assistance

No trace has been found by the police of the trio of masked and armed men who shot and killed Isador Lor, a Hotel Oakland waiter, beat into insensibility Caesar Piezzi, 809 Jackson street, and indirectly caused the death of Harry Stone of Port Costa, in a saloon holdup at 271 Twelfth street, late last night.

Lor is at the morgue with a bullet through his head. Piezzi is at home with a four-inch scalp wound inflicted by the revolver butt of one of the holdup men. Stone is at the Central Emergency hospital with internal injuries, the result of being run down by an automobile en route to the police station to summon help. The would-be robbers, following the murder, disappeared.

The trio entered the saloon, owned by A. E. M. Prenveille, and ordered the latter and the half-dozen patrons in the place to throw up their hands. The men were masked with white handkerchiefs over their faces, with slits cut for the eyes. Each carried a heavy revolver. The men in the place obeyed the command with the exception of Piezzi.

THOUGHT IT A JOKE.

"Oh, put down your guns," he said, thinking the holdup was the work of some friends who were trying to play a joke.

His answer was a blow on the head that stretched him senseless on the floor. Lor, who was standing nearest to the first holdup man, made a movement toward him, at the same time saying:

"Put down your gun and stop your foolishness."

The holdup man swung the nose of his weapon on the waiter and pulled the trigger. As the sound of the shot rang out, Lor spun half way around and dropped on his face. The holdup men, then apparently terrified with what had occurred, backed from the place without making any attempt to molest the patrons of the place and disappeared in the direction of Harrison street.

RUSH FOR POLICE.

Rene Huant, a chauffeur for John Hinkle of Berkeley, accompanied by Thomas Godden, 182 Eleventh street, jumped in Huant's car and started for the police station at a high rate of speed, to summon assistance. At Twelfth and Broadway they ran down Harry Stone who was crossing the street. Huant picked Stone from the pavement, threw him into the back of the machine and sped to the Central Emergency hospital. From this point he telephoned the police. Stone died this forenoon of internal injuries.

Inspector Joseph Robinson rushed to the scene of the murder. The trail led to Harrison street, and thence in the general direction of the waterfront where it was lost. From the description of the men furnished the police by those in the place at the time of the holdup, the authorities are of the opinion that the trio are members of the same ring that have been holding up saloons in various parts of the city for several weeks.

A week prior to last Saturday night, a daring holdup was staged at Seventeenth street and Telegraph avenue, in a family liquor store. On this occasion the proprietor was beaten into insensibility and two tills robbed by two men in the sight of scores of late shoppers. These are believed to have been among the party who last night killed Lor, the waiter.

EYEGLASSES AND SPECTACLES

The Perfect Glasses for Double Vision

There is a difference in bifocal glasses.

Some have one disadvantage, some have another.

Some are blemished by lines and cemented seams; others by humps due to difficulties in grinding.

But there is one bifocal that is free from all of these defects—

KRYPTOK GLASSES
THE ONLY INVISIBLE BIFOCAL

Kryptoks make possible the convenience of double-vision in one pair, without betraying the fact that you are wearing double-vision glasses.

The lower part gives the necessary correction for near vision, the upper part for far vision. Yet they are so perfectly fused that no line nor seam is visible. The surface is absolutely clear and smooth—no shoulder nor hump.

Society

If you have anything about the house which has become a vexation to you, send it to 371 Fourteenth street. The Anti-Tuberculosis Society of Alameda County can make some use of it—that is if it is in good condition.

For on Thursday the "White Elephant Sale" is to open to show Oaklanders and the bay city folk just how successful an exchange of these vexations may become with the result that everybody lives happy ever after. The Baby Hospital people tried a "White Elephant" booth. And it was not such a huge joke as it sounded as for everything that someone discarded there was some one who wanted it. Not before have we, however, had an entire sale devoted to this switching. And it is to last three days!

Society has entered the merry game of ransacking the attics and the closets and the bureau draws, the basements and even the garages. Perhaps it is that the work which this organization is doing finds a tender response in each woman's —and man's—heart. Certain it is that with a record of rendering over 10,000 services during the past twelve months to the tuberculous poor of the vicinity, the efficiency of the society needs no comment.

Mrs. Mark Requa and Miss Annie Florence Brown are heading the large committees who are giving up the week to the preparations for the great grand child of the rummage sale of years ago. It is indeed a small army which is organizing to bring in the ducats to a treasury which sorely needs them. Mrs. Dudley Kinsell has taken over the lingerie counter and has already secured piles of crisp, exquisite garments from sundry givers.

Brass candlesticks, jardinieres and fittings for milady's writing desk are being accumulated by Mrs. Charles S. Chamberlain. Table lamps will not remain long on the counter of Mrs. Harrison Robinson who is already showing some charming samples.

It is Mrs. Frank Hunt Proctor and Miss Annie Florence Brown who will win new laurels because of the wonderful array of spring millinery which they have not hesitated to make with their own hands after the newest models. To go with the bonnets, Mrs. Willard Williamson and Mrs. L. R. Webster are collecting street costumes; Mrs. Sam Belle Wakefield will make a showing of corsets; Mrs. Morris Falk will offer shoes and slippers; Mrs. Henry Martinez has collected gloves of every style, size and color. It will be a bewildering offering of evening finery which Mrs. Harry East Miller and her committee will bring to the sale. Others who have chosen to collect quantities of wearing apparel with comfort as the underlying thought are: Miss Ethel Moore, waists; Mrs. Fred C. Turner, coats, wraps and sweaters; Mrs. William E. Sharon, men's clothes; the Misses Herrick, children's clothing.

But it is not to be altogether a serious utility sale, for the boys and girls who love to play are to have a special booth in which toys of every description are to be offered by Mrs. Frederick Magee.

Old furniture and new furniture, useful as well as ornamental will be the contribution which Mrs. Mark Requa, Mrs. George E. Perkins and Mrs. William Mlwain will make.

Pictures and books will be presided over by Mrs. Wickham Havens and a number of the younger matrons.

It will be a distinguished body of men and women who will throng the ivory ballroom of Hotel Oakland on the evening of Monday, February 19, brought together by a mutual interest in Providence Hospital and its future. But while the hospital will be the pervading thought, really serious matters such as raising funds and asking subscriptions will be put aside and nothing more vital will be mentioned than that during the past twelve years the Sisters have devoted fifteen percent of their building and care to charity patients.

However, the February gathering is to take the form of a dinner followed by the usual round of toasts and then dancing. Miss Lorena McIntyre is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Justice Harry Melvin will be the toastmaster with eloquent talks offered by Archbishop Hanna, Harmon Bell, Robert Fitzgerald and Postmaster Joseph Rosborough.

Among the 500 for whom covers will be laid will be: Mr. and Mrs. George E. Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Donovan, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rosborough, Dr. and Mrs. O. D. Hamlin, Dr. Dudley S. Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hogan, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Tolan, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Quinn, Dr. and Mrs. A. F. Maine, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Carlston, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fitzgerald.

Friday evening Horton gave a prettily appointed dinner dance with covers laid for Mrs. Horton, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. MacDonald, Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Rohffs, Dr. and Mrs. Clifford Pruett, Mrs. Georgiana Wheeler.

The marriage of Leland Hedemark and Miss Mabel Yelton was a pretty affair of Thursday last, taking place at the Yelton home in Fourth Avenue Heights. Only the immediate members of the two families witnessed the ceremony which was read by Rev. T. A. Story. Frank Yelton as best man and Miss Mabel Colwell as maid of honor completed the small bridal party. After their honeymoon the young people will take possession of their new home in the Fourth Avenue Heights district.

Captivating Mary Carstairs

By WM. SYDNOR HARRISON

"Old?" said Varney, surprised at the question, "Oh, I don't know. The separation took place—h'm—say eight years ago, and my guess is that she was about 4 at the time. From this and the way Uncle Elbert spoke of her, I daresay 12 would hit it fair and square. A grand age for kidnaping, what?"

"On the contrary," said Peter, "it makes it mere baby work. Turn it over as you will, it all boils down to spanking a naughty child."

"Never! Think of slipping a cog in our plans—making a false start, having somebody get on to us! Why, man, there may be jail for us both in this!"

He examined Peter's face hopefully, but found unaffected apathy there.

"Suppose," he cried boastfully, "that the Associated Press got on to it! Think of the disgrace of it! 'Millionaire Maginnis Caught Kidnaping!' Think of being fired from the Curzon and having to leave New York a hunted and broken man! Think," he added in an inspired climax, "of having your photograph in the Sunday Herald!"

Maginnis perked up visibly at this. "There is no chance of that really, do you think?"

"None in the world," said Varney, desperately.

He felt sure that this had cost him Peter, whom he had come to as his oldest and best friend. Having no idea whom he could turn to next, he rose, tentatively, and for the moral effect, to go.

"After all," he said aloud, "I have another man in my mind who would, on second thoughts, suit me better."

"Oh, sit down!" cried Peter impatiently.

Larry sat down. His face showed, in spite of him, how really anxious he was to have Peter go. There was a brief pause.

"Since you are so crazy to have me," said Peter, "I'll go."

"Thank you," said Varney. He picked up his glass, which he had hitherto not touched, drained it at a gulp, and pushed the bell vigorously. "I knew," he cried, "that you'd see the possibilities when once your brain began to work."

Peter's faint smile was an insult in its way.

"Three things have decided me to go with you, old son, and none of them has anything to do with your possibilities. The first is that I'm the one man in a million you really need in case of trouble."

"Peter, your modesty is your curse."

"The second is—did you read the Sun this morning? It seems that this little town of Hunston is having a violent spasm of politics right now. Rather lucky coincidence, I should say. The despatch I read was pretty vague, but I gather that there's an interesting fight on between a strong machine and a small but firm reform movement."

"Ha! Occupation for you while I beat the woods for little Mary."

"I'll need it."

"Well, what was your other wonderful reason?"

"Don't you know? It is that sixty horse-power oath your uncle made you swear."

"Because it committed me, you mean?"

The door opened, men entered noisily, and Peter had to draw Varney aside to explain darkly: "Because it committed me to wondering what difficulties foxy old Carstairs made a point of concealing from you."

Trench Band Will Tour United States

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—A band, every one of whose members has recently been wounded and is on furlough from the French trenches on the western front, has been organized and will tour the United States soon, Percy Weadon announced today. The band has among its members some of the headliners from the Opera Comique and the Conservatoire, and several well-known composers under the direction of M. Koche of the Conservatoire.

Uncle Wiggily and his FRIENDS

By HOWARD R. GARIS.

While hopping through the woods one day, as he often did, looking for an adventure, Uncle Wiggily Longears, the rabbit gentleman, who lived with his muskrat lady housekeeper in a hollow-stump bungalow, came to a place in the forest where no trees grew. It was a sort of little circle, and in summer there was a carpet of green grass on it, while now, in winter, the rug was of white snow.

And in the center of the circle, which had the name of being a place where fairies often came, stood a young man.

This young man had on a purple cloak, trimmed with gold; a purple velvet cap, with an ostrich feather in it, was on his head, and by his side hung a sword, glittering with gold and diamonds.

"Ha!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily to himself. "Unless I am greatly mistaken that is one of those 'Arabian Nights' chaps. I wonder if he has lost his magic carpet, or if the wonderful wishing spy-glass, through which he looks, has fallen down a crack in the boardwalk? At any rate he seems to be in trouble, and perhaps I can help him."

Giving his pink nose a twinkle so as to be proper like, and stylish, Uncle Wiggily hopped over to where the young man was standing rather sadlike and disconsolate, and the bunny asked:

"Is there anything I can do to help you, Prince?"

"How did you know I was a prince?" asked the young man.

"I can easily tell that by looking at your sword and purple cloak," answered the rabbit gentleman, who, as I have told you, could, at certain times, speak man-talk and understand it also.

"Yes," said the young man, "I am a prince, and I am in trouble."

"Then please let me help you," begged Uncle Wiggily.

"I hardly think you can," went on the young man, "though it is kind of you to offer. I'll tell you my story. My father is King in a far-off land. Not long since he found himself growing old, so, calling me and my two brothers to him he said:

"'Before I leave you I want to see the throne matter settled and everything at peace and quietness in my kingdom. Now here is what I wish you princes to do.'

"He then told us," said the prince, speaking to Uncle Wiggily, "that he wanted each of us to set out and travel for a year and a day. Whoever, at the end of that time, should bring to him the smallest but finest little puppy dog, to him would he leave the kingdom, and this would stop all quarrels about it.

"So we set off, my brothers and I, each taking a different road, to try to find the smallest little puppy dog. But alas! though I have traveled far and near, I have not been able to find a puppy dog small enough. They have all been too large. Now the time is nearly up when I should go back home, and I'm sure my brothers will get ahead of me."

"Have no fear," said Uncle Wiggily kindly. "I know where to get just the littlest, cutest, dearest little puppy dog you ever saw. I'll get him for you, and you shall take him to the King, your father, and you will get the kingdom."

"That will be fine," said the First, or Purple Prince, as I shall call him. "But where will you get such a puppy?"

"Why, Mrs. Bow Wow, the mother of Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, has a baby puppy dog so small that he sleeps at night in a walnut shell. I'm sure she'll let you take him to the King, your father."

"Oh, fine!" cried the Purple Prince. "That is very kind of you. Where does Mrs. Bow Wow live?"

"I'll take you to her," said the bunny uncle, and he led the way to where the Bow Wow family lived in their dog kennel. Jackie and Peetie, the two little puppy dog boys, were playing out in the snow, having lots of fun.

"Oh! who is that, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Peetie.

"Is it Sinbad the Sailor?" Jackie wanted to know.

"No," answered the Purple Prince for himself, for he could speak animal language when he wished. "I am not Sinbad but I know him very well."

"He has come to borrow Ki-Yi, your little baby brother," said Uncle Wiggily, and when the Purple Prince saw the little puppy asleep in his walnut shell cradle, he cried:

"Oh, he is just the right size! Now I am sure my father will give me his kingdom for a prize."

Mrs. Bow Wow said she would let the Purple Prince borrow the little puppy if Uncle Wiggily would go to the King's palace to make sure no harm came to Ki-Yi. So it happened that at the end of a year and a day, the old rabbit gentleman traveled on with the Purple Prince.

At last three Princes, and Uncle Wiggily, stood before the old King, who wished to settle his kingdom on one of the sons before the monarch himself went away. The eldest prince had his little dog in a cocoanut shell, the next in a scooped-out orange, and both the dogs were beautiful, and so small that everybody said:

"O-o-o-o-oh!"

"But where is your puppy dog, Purple Prince," asked the old King.

The Purple Prince brought out the walnut shell, and everyone began to laugh.

"There can be no puppy small enough to fit in that!" they said.

"You shall see!" cried the Purple Prince, and when he cracked open the walnut shell, just as is told in the story books, out popped Ki-Yi, barking so hard that his little tail, about as big around as a pin, stood out straight.

The Window at the White Cat

By Mary Roberts Rinehart

"Very few—besides myself, only a man who looks after the club-house in the mornings, and Clarkson, the cashier of the Borough Bank, who met him there once by appointment."

The chief made no comment.

"Now Mr. Knox, what about you?"

"I opened the door into Mr. Fleming's room, perhaps a couple of minutes after Mr. Wardrop went out," I said. "He was dead then, leaning on his outspread arms over the table; he had been shot in the forehead."

"You heard no shot while you were in the hall?"

"There was considerable noise; I heard two or three sharp reports like the explosions of an automobile engine."

"Did they seem close at hand?"

"Not particularly: I thougnt, if I thought at all, that they were on the street."

"You are right about the automobile," Hunter said dryly. "The mayor sent his car away as I left to follow Mr. Wardrop. The sounds you heard were not shots."

"It is a strange thing," the chief reflected, "that a revolver could be fired in the upper room of an ordinary dwelling house, while that house was filled with people—and nobody hear it. Were there any powder marks on the body?"

"None," Hunter said.

The chief got up stiffly.

"Thank you very much, gentlemen," he spoke quietly. "I think that is all. Hunter, I would like to see you for a few minutes."

I think Wardrop was dazed at finding himself free; he had expected nothing less than an immediate charge of murder. As we walked to the corner for a car or cab, whichever materialized first, he looked back.

"I thought so," he said bitterly. A man was loitering after us along the street. The police were not asleep, they had only closed one eye.

The last train had gone. We took a night electric car to Wynton, and walked the three miles to Bellwood. Neither of us was talkative, and I imagine we were both thinking of Margery, and the news she would have to hear.

It had been raining, and the roads were vile. Once Wardrop turned around to where we could hear the detective splashing along, well behind.

"I hope he's enjoying it," he said. "I brought you by this road, so he'd have to wade in mud up to his neck."

"The devil you did!" I exclaimed. "I'll have to be scraped with a knife before I can get my clothes off."

We both felt better for the laugh; it was a sort of nervous reaction. The detective was well behind, but after a while Wardrop stood still, while I plowed along. They came up together presently, and the three of us trudged on, talking of immaterial things.

At the door Wardrop turned to the detective with a faint smile. "It's raining again," he said, "you'd better come in. You needn't worry about me; I'm not going to run away, and theres a couch in the library."

The detective grinned, and in the light from the hall I recognized the man I had followed to the police station two nights before.

"I guess I will," he said, looking apologetically at his muddy clothes. "This thing is only a matter of form, anyhow."

But he didn't lie down on the couch. He took a chair in the hall near the foot of the stairs, and we left him there, with the evening paper and a lamp. It was a queer situation, to say the least.

A FRIEND'S ADVICE

Woman Saved From a Serious Surgical Operation.

Louisville, Ky.—"For four years I suffered from female troubles, headaches, and nervousness. I could not sleep, had no appetite and it hurt me to walk. If I tried to do any work, I would have to lie down before it was finished. The doctors said I would have to be operated on and I simply broke down. A friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the result is I feel like a new woman. I am well and strong, do all my own house work and have an eight pound baby girl. I know Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation which every woman dreads." — Mrs. NELLIE FISHBACK, 1521 Christy Ave., Louisville, Ky.

Everyone naturally dreads the surgeon's knife. Sometimes nothing else will do, but many times Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved the patient and made an operation unnecessary.

If you have any symptom about which you would like to know, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for helpful advice given free.

DOCK AND DECK

Steamer Centralia has arrived here today on her first voyage for her new owners, Hammond Lumber Co. She came from Coos Bay with 500,000 feet of lumber on board. The Centralia for nearly three years made weekly trips from Oakland to Eureka, but a few months ago was taken off that run.

The Hammond Co. has four wooden steamers now under construction here.

With 3150 tons of coal from Nanaimo, B. C., the barge Acapulco arrived at the Western Fuel bunkers this morning and will receive quick dispatch as several vessels are due here for fuel coal.

After a pleasant voyage of twenty-eight days, the schooner Allen A. arrived from Honolulu today in ballast where she will go on the drydock to be put in shape for her annual trip codfishing in Behring sea, Alaska. She is owned by the Alaska Codfish Co. and was chartered to take a cargo of lumber to the islands. The City of Papeete of the same company is also here getting ready for Alaska.

LOADING MINNESOTA FOR TRIP TO SEA.

Two barges with coal from Oakland bunkers was towed along side the steamship Minnesota yesterday and began discharging 5000 tons of coal into the steamer's bunkers.

The Norwegian tanker Belridge came into port today en route from Victoria to Port San Luis for oil, the reason for calling here was to go on the drydock for inspection as she was in collision with the British steamer Empress of Japan, last Wednesday in the north.

Steamship Wilhelmina came off the drydock yesterday and began loading her cargo for Honolulu today. The vessel went aground at low water last Friday while en route to Crockett sugar refinery. She landed on San Pablo shoal, but was found uninjured.

The United States tug Iroquois has arrived home from Eureka and gone direct to Mare Island to assist in salving the submarine H3.

NEW SCHOONER ON HER TRIAL TRIP.

The new steam schooner Idaho, built for Wilson Brothers of Aberdeen, Washington, had her official trial trip around the bay yesterday with a large party of Alameda county families on board. Her hull was built in the north and she was towed here where her engines and boilers was installed at Moore & Scott's shipyard.

Captain Odland was in command of the new craft. She is 215 feet long, 41 feet beam, 15 feet depth of hold and can carry 1,000,000 feet of lumber. After a few finishing touches, she will sail for Aberdeen, where the Wilson lumber mills are situated, and bring a cargo of lumber to Oakland harbor.

WALL STREET IN VARIED TRADING

Stocks Rise and Fall in "Nervous" Manner Under War Rumors.

By Charles W. Storm,
Correspondent of the International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Though substantial gains were made in many issues in the initial trading on the stock exchange today the tone was nervous and varied. During the first few minutes many stocks made gains ranging from two to three woints, but quickly declined under moderate suply.

Steel common started two points higher at 106 and reacted to 105; Utah Copper opened three points higher at 108½ and reacted to 107½., Crucible rose 1⅜ to 59¼ and then dropped to 58. Alcohol, after advancing to 124, declined to 121½.

Central Leather rose 3½ to 78½c, but later reacted to 77. Bethlehem Steel opened up 15 points to 415.

The shipping issues were weak at the start, with Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies showing a loss of 2¾ at 94¼, but buying orders quickly forced ti up to 98. Marine common dropped a point to 21 and the proferred 1⅛ to 65¾.

Anaconda was strong, although the early trading rose 2½ to 75¼. Some of the railway issues were established at higher levels. Wabash rose 2½ to 50, and fractional gains were made in Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Erie.

Stocks were in scant supply in the late forenoon when gains, ranging from three to five points, were numerous. Steel common was traded in on a large scalo and rose to 107¾, a gain of 3¾ in all.

Realizing sales caused a reaction to 106⅝, but it again rose to 107. Central Leather rose to 78¾, Marine from 21¼@22¼, and the preferred from 65¾ to 69, from which it reacted to 67¾. Fractional gains were scored by Anaconda, Utah and a number of other issues.

Money loaning at 2 per cent.

There were violent upturns in the issues in the afternoon. American Beet Sugar sold at 99, a gain of six points for the day, and additional upturns were made in Utah Copper and the marine issues. Sloss-Sheffield advanced over four points to 56½. Central Leather sold at 81½, an advance of six points.

Brooklyn Rapid Transit was exceptionally weak, losing seven points and selling at 65.

The stock market closed irregular; government bonds unchanged; railroad and other bonds irregular.

The New York Evening Sun financial review today said:

The strength in today's stock market reflected improved sentiment throughout financial and securities circles. This improvement was due in large measure to the removal of numerous uncertainties that have been cleared away by the definite break in diplomatic relations with the German empire. These steps taken, the atmosphere in Wall Street has been cleared. Security values may now be regarded for what they are actually worth.

The uncertainties thus largely removed, there has been the most vigorous response by pronounced strength in the stock, grain and cotton markets, all of which were well bought today.

The advance in stocks was from 3 to 6 points or more, but the movement was by no means consistently maintained.

The steel stocks were all strong, with U. S. Steel moving forward over 4 points, through 108. In the copper group both Anaconda and Utah moved up more than 4 points and Steel stocks were not far behind.

The shipping shares were under pressure early, but they recovered their losses. With the exception of Maxwell, the motor issues were reactionary. The munitions and specialty stocks were in brisk demand.

New Haven sold down to a new low record price. The traction stocks were inclined to be heavy.

Eastern Livestock Markets

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—Live stock trade was on a famine basis today, due to the storm. Advances of 35c per hundredweight were the rule in every branch of stockyard trade.

CHICAGO WHEAT PIT

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—The violence of recent fluctuations today appeared to have made the wheat pit too hazardous, except for large dealers and moderate gains were soon overcome this morning owing in part to rumors that Austria had taken the same position as Germany regarding unrestricted sea war. Opening prices, which ranged from ⅛c off to 3¼c up, with May at $1.67¾@1.69½, and July at $1.49½ to $1.50, were followed by rapid changes, but an increasing bearish tendency until the market had dropped to below Saturday's finish all around.

After opening ¼@⅞c higher, the market scored material further upturns.

Oats sympathized with the action of corn. The purchasing of oats, however, appeared to lack vigor.

Sharp advances in provisions resulted from the scantiness of the hog supply here and at other western centers.

Hog quotations were at the highest level of the season.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET

Potatoes continued the leading feature in the local produce market today with a further rise in price, due to scarcity. Oregon Burbanks were quoted at $3.75 and Nevadas at a similar figure, with the prospect of a still higher figure within a few days. Rivers brought $4 a sack. New arrivals of Nevada potatoes, which shippers have been unable to send hitherto, on account of severe frost, are expected in the Oakland market in about a week. Commission men predict a 4-cent minimum, which means potatoes will retail at four pounds for a quarter.

Los Angeles lettuce jumped to from $1.75 to $2.00 a crate today on account of its scarcity. There was no change in the quotations for other vegetables. The market generally for both fruit and vegetables was fairly good today.

CHILDREN WILL MEET COMEDIAN

Will M. Cressy and TRIBUNE to Be Hosts at Affair.

Don't forget that Will M. Cressy is going to give the school children of Oakland a treat at the Orpheum next Saturday morning, and he has invited The TRIBUNE to be the host of the affair. That suits The TRIBUNE perfectly, because everybody knows that when Will Cressy decides to entertain either grown-ups or children, with the Orpheum stage as his platform, something pretty nice is sure to come off. In plain English, The TRIBUNE thinks the youngsters of Oakland are going to have a big treat, and is more than pleased to act as Mr. Cressy's host on this occasion in Oakland.

This is the way it is going to be, children. Listen!

Every youngster in Oakland, under 15, who wishes to occupy a choice Orpheum seat next Saturday morning, at 11 o'clock, as the guest of The TRIBUNE, at the Orpheum Theater, has only to cut the TRIBUNE coupon from this paper any day this week, present it at the Orpheum next Saturday morning and promptly be ushered into a choice Orpheum seat.

Now to explain what Mr. Cressy is going to do for the kiddies:

Will Cressy is one of the greatest globe trotters in the world. In the course of his six tours of the world he has accumulated a collection of more than 5000 extraordinary photographs of people and places from all over the globe. Mr. Cressy has had these photographs made into beautiful and fascinating slides. He is going to show these slides to the youngsters at the Orpheum, and he will accompany this superb performance with an hour's talk, such as only Will M. Cressy knows how to give.

That will be some treat, eh?

Will Cressy's wit is famous from coast to coast. He is the highest salaried comedian in vaudeville. He is an author of fame, for he has written exactly one hundred and forty-two plays, every one of which has succeeded. The plays have made Cressy rich and famous. They are all clean. They are all clever. They are all funny.

It costs the Orpheum a hundred dollar bill every time Cressy steps out on the stage to appear in one of his plays. This week, for instance, in his newest play, "A City Case," the Orpheum hands over to Will Cressy a small fortune on pay day, which is Saturday night. Cressy earns it, or they would not pay it to him.

If they were to pay Cressy what his travelogue is worth they would have to hand him about $50,000 for the goods. That is what it cost Cressy to accumulate the material. But Will Cressy is something more than a great actor, and something more than a great author, and something more than a great money maker.

Cressy loves kids.

His dearest, fondest joy is to amuse them and please them. That is why he devised this travelogue and planned it for the entertainment of the youngsters in every town he visits on the Orpheum circuit. That is why the youngsters of Oakland will have a chance to be The TRIBUNE'S guests next Saturday, at the Orpheum, when they will get a peek at the mysteries of all the strange foreign countries which Will Cressy has traveled in his globe trotting tours.

Cut the Cressy Travelogue coupon from The TRIBUNE. Then make your plans to be at the Orpheum next Saturday.

There will be a crowd. Come early, for it will be a case of first come, first served, and remember, children only!

Local Employers to Depend on State

A. E. Falch, representing the Public Employment Bureaus of the State of California, is spending a few days in Oakland interviewing employers. He is much pleased with the result of his work, as every employer interviewed has promised to use the state service.

The state at present operates employment bureaus in Oakland, San Francisco, Sacramento and Los Angeles, under the State Labor Bureau, of which John P. McLaughlin is the head, and they are under the direct management of C. B. Sexton. It is likely that the present Legislature will make adequate appropriation to permit the extension of the service to other labor centers in the state.

About 65 per cent of the applicants were native born and 35 per cent foreign born; 80 per cent were citizens and 20 per cent aliens; 60 per cent were single, 30 per cent were married and 10 per cent widowed.

The Oakland branch of the free employment bureau is located at 401 Tenth street, telephone 781.

RHEUMATISM PAIN

The exact cause of rheumatism is unknown, though it is generally believed to be due to an excess of uric acid in the blood. It may be also said with equal truth that no remedy has been found which is a specific in all cases. In fact the literature of rheumatism shows that there are but few drugs which have not been given a trial. In the hands of one observer we find that a certain drug has been used with the utmost satisfaction; others have found the same remedy to be a great disappointment. All physicians however agree that every method of treatment is aided by the administration of some remedy to relieve the pain and quiet the nervous system and Dr. W. S. Schultze expresses the opinion of thousands of practitioners when he says that anti-kamnia tablets should be given preference over al other remedies for the relief of the pain in all forms of rheumatism. These tablets can be purchased in any quantity. They are also unsurpassed for headaches, neuralgia and all pain. Ask for A-K Tablets.
